DAY-TO-DAY HALACHIC GUIDE

Detailed instructions on the laws and customs for the month of Tishrei 5781

Part Three:
Chol Hamoed Sukkos
until after Shabbos Bereishis

Distilled from a series of public shiurim delivered by
Horav Yosef Yeshaya Braun, shlita member of the Badatz of Crown Heights

In a sichah on the second day of Rosh Hashanah in the year 5752, the Rebbe stated:

“We need to focus on studying the laws that apply to this time of year, during which many changes are made to the standard prayers and there are numerous customs that apply. We should make certain to study these laws in the Code of Jewish Law.

Recently, yearly calendars have begun to include many of the laws that apply to the relevant time of the year and that are necessary to know. This is particularly useful for those who, for whatever reason, do not have sefarim or do not know how to find what they are looking for in the sefarim that they own. Now, however, they can simply examine such calendars and easily find the relevant laws.

It is therefore extremely appropriate for every single person to peruse the contents of these calendars, such as the Kollel Chabad calendar (available both in wall size and pocket size formats) in such a manner that the laws that apply to this time of year will become fixed in his memory. After all, it sometimes happens that a halachic question arises precisely at a point during which it is forbidden to interrupt and ask for someone’s guidance—or when there is nobody around to ask. Furthermore, [not having familiarized himself with the relevant laws beforehand,] it can happen that one does not even realize that there is a problem to begin with.

This guide incorporates several reminders about laws that will only be applicable during the Era of Redemption, with the hope that Moshiach will come speedily, allowing us to implement these laws in practice. The concept of studying these halachos is based on several sichos, some are quoted in the introduction to parts I and II.

The earlier sections also provide information on the sources of these relevant laws, which do not to replace each person’s obligation to review the Halachos comprehensively.

* * *

Note: The times listed below are for Crown Heights only. Many factors influence the calculation of zmanim (halachic times) and it is not possible to achieve complete precision. It is therefore recommended to begin earlier than the time listed and not wait until the last minute (e.g., for the start of Shabbos), or to wait extra time when that is the appropriate precaution (e.g., the close of Shabbos).

MOTZAEI YOM TOV

Yom Tov ends at 7:13 pm.

During the amidah of Maariv, recite atah chonantanu and ya'aleh ve-yavo. The amidah is followed by kaddish shalem and aleinu.

If you forgot ya'aleh ve-yavo [tonight or any time during davening of Chol Hamoed], see footnote.<sup>1</sup>

Havdalah: Return to your sukkah<sup>2</sup> to recite havdalah. The usual text of havdalah is recited, but without the blessings over the spices and the candle. If wine is used, the blessing of leisheiv ba-sukkah is recited as well.

Recite ha-mavdil bein kodesh le-chol, not bein kodesh le-kodesh. If you accidentally said bein kodesh le-kodesh, see footnote<sup>3</sup>.

Tonight's ushpizin are led by Yaakov Avinu and the Alter Rebbe.

Dipping challah in honey during Chol Ha-Mo'ed is optional.

During birkas ha-mazon, recite ya'aleh ve-yavo and the ha-rachaman for Sukkos, but not the ha-rachaman for Yom Tov.

If you forgot to recite ya'aleh ve-yavo [any time during birkas ha-mazon of Chol Hamoed], or made another mistake associated with ya'aleh ve-yavo, see footnote.<sup>4</sup>

MONDAY, 1ST DAY OF CHOL HAMOED, 17 TISHREI

Latest morning Shema is before 9:48 am.

Perform the mitzvah of lulav in the morning as on the previous day, but without reciting shehechyanu, as on the remaining days of Sukkos, as well.

1) If you forgot to recite ya'aleh ve-yavo and realize your error before pronouncing Hashem's name in the blessing of ha-machazir shechinaso le-tziyon, recite it immediately and then continue with ve-sechezenah. If you realized your error right before modim, recite ya'aleh ve-yavo immediately and proceed with modim. If you already began modim, as long as you have not recited the second yiyu le-ratzon at the conclusion of the amidah, return to retzei. If you recited the second yiyu le-ratzon and did not intend to offer further supplications at that point, repeat the entire amidah from its start.

2) Throughout the year, you enter your home and recite havdalah; you must treat the sukkah as your home in this regard.

3) If you accidentally said bein kodesh le-kodesh, it is preferable to hear havdalah again, recited by someone else. If that is not an option, repeat the entire havdalah. (This matter was explained at length during the kinus Torah of Chol Hamoed Pesach 5774 and has been published in B'asra D'rav, issue 3.)

4) If you forgot to recite ya'aleh ve-yavo and remembered after saying Hashem's name in the blessing of boneh yerushalayim or if you already concluded this blessing, recite the text printed in the Siddur for this purpose (conclude the brachah of boneh yerushalayim first if in middle): baruch ... asher nassan mo'adim...es yom chag hasukkos hazeh (without the [yom tov] conclusion of baruch... mekadesh yisroel ve'ha-zmanim).

If you remembered ya'aleh ve-yavo after you began the following blessing of ha-tov u-meitiv—even after reciting only the first word, “baruch”—you do not return or repeat birkas ha-mazon to recite it. (If a person made a mistake and started repeating birkas ha-mazon in this instance, stop immediately—even in the midst of a blessing.)

Do not wear tefillin during Chol Hamoed. Recite the ordinary weekday Shacharis, including ya'aleh ve-yavo, the complete Hallel, followed by Hosha'anos for the third day of Sukkos om ani chomah, kaddish tiskabel, shir shel yom, le-David Hashem ori, and kaddish yasom. Then read the Torah — one sefer Torah and four aliyos — followed by chatzi kaddish, ashrei, u'va le-tziyon, yehallulu, and chatzi kaddish.

If you forget to recite ya'aleh ve-yavo in Shacharis, the same halachah applies as in Maariv (see above). However, if one remembers his omission only after davening Mussaf, they don't repeat the amidah of Shacharis.

Recite the Mussaf for the shalosh regalim; remember to recite the verse applicable to each respective day of Sukkos. When reciting verses enumerating sacrifices for more than one day, add the phrase beginning uminchasam veniskeihem after the recital of each day's sacrifices. This is true every day of Chol Hamoed. Sheish zechiros (the daily Six Remembrances) is recited.

If you realize on any day of Sukkos that you omitted shehechyanu during the first two days of Yom Tov, see footnote.<sup>5</sup>

There is a debate regarding one who forgot to recite havdalah on motzei Yom Tov. Since the matter is uncertain, havdalah should not be recited once the night has passed.

Men must drink a revi'is of wine each day of Sukkos, including Chol Hamoed, in order to fulfill their obligation of rejoicing during the festival. The Frierdiker Rebbe would drink a revi'is of wine with each meal during Sukkos. Children fulfill this obligation by receiving treats<sup>6</sup>.

There is no absolute obligation to eat bread during Chol Hamoed, but it is considered a mitzvah for one to do so. It is similarly a mitzvah to eat meat to fulfill the requirement of rejoicing during the festival.<sup>7</sup>

One must honor Chol Hamoed with good food, drink, and special clothing, like on every festival (and it is therefore proper to wear Shabbos or Yom Tov clothing), and he must not conduct himself as if it were an ordinary weekday<sup>8</sup>.

5) If you forgot to recite Shehechyanu the first or second night of Sukkos, recite it as soon as you realize your error. If the omission was on both the first and second night, make certain to recite the blessing inside a sukkah in order to include your obligation to recite shehechyanu on the sukkah. If the omission was only on the second night, you must still repeat it, but you need not wait to enter the sukkah.

6) Or at least chassidische nosh... The Rebbe once commented regarding Pesach that a picture haggadah for children can be considered chassidische nosh.

7) See Ohrchos Chaim, Hilchos Chol Hamoed 34. The same can be concluded from the language used in Shulchan Aruch Admur HaZaken 529:6-7. See also Shaalos U'Teshuvos Be'er Moshe, vol. VII 3:102 and the sichah of Hoshana Rabbah 5750.

8) See Magen Avraham 530:101; Mishnah Berurah ibid. in Shaar Hatziyon 3. Nimukei Orach Chaim, ibid., 3. See also the sichah of the 3rd day of Chol Hamoed

This is not to be taken lightly, in face of Chazal's statement that whoever disgraces the festivals by performing a forbidden activity or conducting himself in the manner of an ordinary weekday in regards to eating and drinking and the like, even if he has much Torah and mitzvos to his credit, "he has no portion...and is considered as having worshipped false gods."

Although carrying in the street and lighting a fire, which are forbidden during a festival, are permitted on Chol HaMoed, many other activities are prohibited. For example: business activity; sewing; washing clothes (with the exception of clothing of very young children who soil their clothing regularly); writing (if it is required for Chol HaMoed, it is permitted, but it is customary to make a minor change from the ordinary manner of writing); printing; cutting nails; and taking haircuts.

Many authorities state that activities that are not for the sake of Chol HaMoed are forbidden even if they are neither cumbersome nor time-consuming. Generally speaking, only activities that are both nonprofessional and required for Chol HaMoed or the final days of Yom Tov are permitted. One of the exceptions to this principle are activities pertaining to food supply and preparation.

Detailed laws legislate the precise definition of "activities that are considered nonprofessional" and the meaning of "required for Chol HaMoed." In summary: an activity that produces a professional result is nevertheless permitted if it is a simple task that does not require significant concentration and a skilled hand. By contrast, if the act itself requires professional expertise, then it is forbidden even for an untrained individual—even if the majority of people know how to execute this particular task. In addition, many activities can be easily postponed to after Yom Tov or skipped entirely, and they are therefore considered not necessary for Chol HaMoed.<sup>9</sup>

In Peleh Yo'eitz, under the entry for Chol HaMoed, the author states, "Many profane the sanctity of Chol HaMoed. As a result of additional activities being permitted during Chol HaMoed that are not permitted on Yom Tov, people have come to consider all activities as permissible. They do not try to discover which activities are permissible and which are forbidden. Anyone with yiras shamayim should try to learn the distinctions from written works or from learned individuals, to avoid transgressing."

Devote time to the study of Torah. The Talmud Yerushlami states that the reason for the restriction on activities during Chol HaMoed is in order to facilitate eating, drinking and rejoicing in honor of the festival and for toiling in the study of Torah.

TUESDAY, THE 2ND DAY OF CHOL HAMOED, 18 TISHREI

Tonight's ushpizin are led by Moshe Rabbeinu and Admur HaEmtza'i (the Mittler Rebbe)

Latest time for morning Shema is before 9:48 am.

Recite Shacharis as yesterday, including the Hoshanos for the fourth day of Sukkos.

If you keep your lulav in a container with water, it is a hiddur to change the water during Chol Hamoed.

Be extra careful to check your aravos, because its leaves are easily dislodged by being pressed against the lulav and through the shaking of the lulav. Do not use aravos with missing leaves if it is not difficult to acquire aravos with a complete set of leaves. Once most of the leaves of an aravah have fallen, within a space of three tefachim, it is invalid.

During the course of Chol Hamoed exchange all or part of your set of hadassim and aravos. It is not the Chabad custom to replace the aravos daily.

WEDNESDAY, 3RD DAY OF CHOL HAMOED, 19 TISHREI

Today's ushpizin are led by Aharon HaKohen and the Tzemach Tzedek. Tekufas Tishrei, the Autumn (or Fall) season in the Jewish calendar (marked by the vernal equinox) begins today, at 3:00 am.<sup>10</sup>

Latest time for morning Shema is before 9:49 am.

Recite Shacharis as yesterday, including the Hoshanos for the fifth day of Sukkos.

THURSDAY, THE 4TH DAY OF CHOL HAMOED, 20 TISHREI

Today's ushpizin are led by Yosef HaTzaddik and the Rebbe Maharash.

Latest time for morning Shema is before 9:49 am.

Recite Shacharis as yesterday, including the Hoshanos for the sixth day of Sukkos.

THURSDAY NIGHT, EVE OF HOSHANA RABBAH<sup>11</sup>

Tonight's ushpizin are led by Dovid HaMelech and the Rebbe Rashab.

During birchas ha-mazon, recite ya'aleh ve-yavo and the ha-rachaman for Sukkos, but not the ha-rachaman for Yom Tov. (If you forget to say them, see above in the entry for Chol Hamoed.)

Chazal forbade bloodletting procedures, practiced in former

10) The tefukos-seasons are mentioned in the introduction to the calendar in HaYom Yom and in Luach Colel Chabad. For detailed laws, See Beis Yosef, Orach Chayim, 455 (end); Rema, ibid., par. 1; (Shulchan Aruch Admur HaZaken, ibid., par. 15-16, and in 206:14); Yoreh De'ah, 116:5; and many other places. See Likkutei Sichos, vol. 16, p. 98, fn. 33; vol. 21, p. 233, fn. 33; vol. 16, p. 577.

11) Regarding the two versions of the name Hoshana Rabbah (either the Hebrew word "Rabbah", with a hei at the end of the word, or the Aramaic "Rabba" with an alef), see Leil Hoshana Rabbah 5751.

times as a standard form of improving the body's health, on every erev Yom Tov. They were primarily concerned with bloodletting performed on erev Shavuot, in which case a degree of actual danger exists. The Alter Rebbe clarifies<sup>12</sup> that although there is room to be lenient if the procedure is performed on the eve of erev Yom Tov and not during the actual day, nevertheless, one should be stringent on the eve of Hoshana Rabbah. For in addition to being erev Yom Tov (i.e., erev Shemini Atzeres), Hoshana Rabbah is also a day of judgment, and all risks should be avoided.

It is not our custom to wish each other gemar chasimah tovah, a guten kvittel or similar wishes on Hoshana Rabbah. At the same time, the Rebbe often made a point of discussing the concept underlying such greetings, without explicitly expressing the wish, in his many sichos on the eves of Hoshana Rabbah.

The superior spiritual power of Hoshana Rabbah lies in the fact that it is the seventh day of Sukkos, and as Chazal state, "All sevenths are precious."<sup>13</sup>

Addressing the nature of Hoshana Rabbah, the Rebbe stated: "The portion of Zohar that is recited on the night of Hoshana Rabbah explains that the King issues forth notes containing His decrees regarding the future on the seventh day of Sukkos. It is clear from this statement that the nature of Hoshana Rabbah is the same as the nature of Rosh Hashanah ... 'The day of the aravah (Hoshana Rabbah) is similar in nature to the day of the shofar (Rosh Hashanah).' Both are times to seek G-d's closeness."<sup>14</sup>

The Mittler Rebbe states: This is the seal (chosam) that is granted to a person on Hoshana Rabbah to guard him from the evil influences throughout the year. It acts as a shield for the light and vitality of the soul and also for the vitality of the body, so that a person is not harmed by evil, physical, sources of harm to his body and his money ... Through this seal, he is rescued from all spiritual accusatory forces in the heavens that are adverse to the life of his soul, as well as physical adversaries that could harm the life of his body. To the contrary! They will personally assist the person, for his spiritual and physical enemies will be subdued and toppled, in the spirit of, "When Hashem accepts a person's ways, He will cause even his enemies to make peace with him,"<sup>15</sup> whereby the prosecutor

12) Shulchan Aruch Admur HaZaken, Orach Chayim, 468:22-23. See this source for an additional matter against which the Alter Rebbe cautions for the identical reason.

13) Sichas Hoshana Rabbah 5747

14) The Rebbe explained this concept at length in Sichas Leil Simchas Torah 5716. Many additional sources describe Hoshana Rabbah in similar terms.

See Ohr HaTorah (Chukas, 1647), based on Zohar: "Hoshana Rabbah is the fashioning of the vessel that enables the revelations of Shemini Atzeres to be fully received." Tzemach Tzedek (Ohr HaTorah, Ki Seitzei, 980) quotes Megaleh Amukos (Ofan 107) in explanation of the verse, "Hashem your G-d transformed for you the curse into blessing" (Devarim 23:6): The numerical equivalent of the word lecha, "for you," is fifty, representing the fifty days from Rosh Chodesh Elul until Hoshana Rabbah, which is the gemar chasimah, the finalization of the determination for the coming year. These are all days of teshuvah. The verse states, "...transformed for you—ess ha-klalah livrachah—the curse into blessing." The extra word ess (spelled alef-tav) form the initials of Elul and Tishrei, the months in which the evil, the gam ess zeh l'umas zeh ("Hashem has made this one as a counterforce to that one"—Koheles 7:14) is transferred into goodness."

15) Mishlei 16:7

becomes an advocate and the hater becomes the enemy.<sup>16</sup>

In numerous sichos,<sup>17</sup> the Rebbe instructs us to amplify the joy of simchas beis ha-sho'eivah on the night of Hoshana Rabbah: "There must be more dancing accompanied to musical instruments than on all previous nights of Sukkos. Tonight's joy should be incomparably greater, in keeping with the principle that we must always ascend and increase in matters of holiness. This is obvious even from reflecting on the fact that from the very start of the night we have entered the day known as Hoshana Rabbah, a title that emphasizes the greatness of the day and its superiority over all other days of Sukkos. The great quality of this day is further emphasized in the additional prayers recited on Hoshana Rabbah. Furthermore, the Zohar as well as sources in nigleh elaborate on the special quality of Hoshana Rabbah. In fact, the Zohar<sup>18</sup> teaches that 'in that rejoicing, none but the Jewish people alone are to be found together with the King.'"

"On the other hand," the Rebbe explained, "on this night, the eve of Hoshana Rabbah, there are a number of additional customs, in addition to the simchas beis ha-sho'eivah, such as reciting the Tikkun Leil Hoshana Rabbah, reciting the book of Tehillim along with the special yehi ratzon prayer for the eve of Hoshana Rabbah, reciting excerpts of Zohar, and so on. These undertakings require considerable time. They must also be done with due attention and concentration—for all matters of serving Hashem must be done "with all your heart, with all your soul, and with all your might"<sup>19</sup>. And since we must devote considerable time to matters reserved for the eve of Hoshana Rabbah, undertakings of utmost importance on this night, we cannot participate in simchas beis ha-sho'eivah—or even engage in a sichah regarding simchas beis ha-sho'eivah—at the same time. For according to halachah we cannot focus on two distinct thoughts at an identical moment.

"We must therefore conclude that on this night, special power is granted from Above that enables us to accomplish all our responsibilities regarding simchas beis ha-sho'eivah—including the ability to celebrate in a way that exceeds all previous nights of Sukkos. This power allows us to act according to a phenomenon that applies to numerous sacred matters, whereby the few can contain the many. In the short amount of time available tonight (relative to previous nights of Sukkos) we are able to contain all of the dynamic activity of the previous nights' simchas beis ha-sho'eivah and with a major increase!"

All Jews are accustomed to remain awake and study Torah tonight, "the Night of the Aravah." During Sukkos, the world's water needs are judged and apportioned. Mankind cannot survive without water, and tonight is the final day of Sukkos—the conclusion being the moment of ultimate decision. We therefore remain awake and recite the Tikkun Leil Hoshana Rabbah, which is comprised of the entire book of Devarim, followed by the entire book of Tehillim, and selections of Zohar.

We read the book of Devarim (as opposed to any of the earlier books of the Torah) because the concepts and directives regarding love and awe of Hashem are primarily recorded there.

16) Sha'arei Teshuvah, p. 83c

17) Sichas Leil Hoshana Rabbah 5742, 5743, 5745, etc.

18) as recited in the Tikkun Leil Hoshana Rabba

19) Devarim 6:4

The Arizal gives a kabbalistic explanation: “Hoshana Rabbah is the time when the second and final seal on decisions regarding the coming year is issued. The first act of sealing transpired at the closing of Ne’ilah on Yom Kippur. That sealing came after the rebuilding of the sefirah of malchus that was accomplished during the aseress yemai teshuvah. Consequently, the first act of sealing occurs in the sefirah of yesod, and it affects the internal dimensions of the sefiros.

“The second sealing, by contrast, is a ‘seal within a seal.’ It affects the external dimensions of the sefiros, and takes place in the sefirah of malchus.<sup>20</sup> This second seal is a repetition of the first, and similarly, the book of Devarim is called Mishneh Torah (Repetition of the Torah). Also, Devarim similarly corresponds to the sefirah of malchus.

“The divine sealing issues from specific forms of Hashem’s names [which the Arizal specifies], the numerical value of which spells the word mishneh (repetition). We read Devarim before the halachic hour of midnight because the judgment is essentially completed during the first half of the eve of Hoshana Rabbah. Then, at the moment of midnight, the sealing is finalized—the seal is issued with malchus, the sefirah in which the judgment is ultimately completed.”

Some authorities state that the Book of Devarim is read because it contains the Torah’s main discussions on love and awe of Hashem. According to numerous sources, the reading of Devarim is associated with the fact that selected sections of Devarim are read aloud by the king before the entire Jewish nation at the hakhel event in the Beis Hamikdash.

Recite the entire book of Devarim. It is not recited together as a congregation. Do not repeat the verses or read the Targum (as is customary on erev Shabbos), even when you reach the verses of this week’s parshah—VeZos HaBrachah.

Read the book of Tehillim after chatzos (halachic midnight). As a rule, we do not recite Tehillim at night, from nightfall until midnight, with the exception of the eves of Rosh Hashanah, Aseres Yemei Teshuvah, Yom Kippur, and Hoshana Rabbah. Even so, in the case of Hoshana Rabbah, we defer the official customary reading of the entire book of Tehillim until after chatzos.

Recite Tehillim together with the congregation. Chatzos is at 12:44 am. In 770, the congregation begins at 1:00 am. Wear a gartel while reciting Tehillim. Do not draw out the reading with time consuming concentration or the like.

After each of Tehillim’s five sefarim, recite the special yehi ratzon prayer for the eve of Hoshana Rabbah, as well as the yehi ratzon for Tehillim “after the appearance of the moon”, for Tehillim recited at night. These appear at the back of the Tehillim. Traditionally, the yehi ratzon for Shabbos and Yom Tov was not recited tonight. However, as mentioned in numerous sichos and in keeping with the practice in 770 in recent years, the yehi ratzon for Shabbos and Yom Tov is also recited tonight.

20) This concept is explained in numerous places in chassidus, e.g., Toras Chayim, Beshalach, p. 233a. See also the Tzemach Tzedek’s explanation in Pelach HaRimon, Vayikra, p. 240.

The yehi ratzon for Hoshana Rabbah that is recited after each book of Tehillim mentions “the book of substance and good livelihood” (after the third sefer), “the book of the upright and the wholesome” (after the fourth sefer), and “the book of the righteous” (after the fifth sefer). That is how the prayer appears in the printed versions of Tehillim. However, in the avinu malkeinu prayer that appears in our siddurim (according to the nusach prepared by the Alter Rebbe), a varied form of the equivalent requests appears. There, we ask for “the book of good life,” “the book of redemption and salvation,” “the book of livelihood and sustenance,” “the book of merits,” and “the book of forgiveness and pardon.” We should defer to the text as it appears in the avinu malkeinu prayer<sup>21</sup>.

The gabbai'im distribute sweet apples to the congregation who arrive to recite Tehillim. After reciting Tehillim, return to your home or place of lodging to eat the apple in a sukkah. Dip the apple in honey.<sup>22</sup> After reciting Tehillim, remain awake and study Torah for the remainder for night. You can choose to study whichever part of Torah you like.

In Lubavitch of old, the Chassidim did not sleep at all on the eve of Hoshana Rabbah. As the Frierdiker Rebbe recounted,<sup>23</sup> “There were certain nights in Lubavitch during which we never recited kerias shema she-al ha-mittah ... on the eve of Hoshana Rabbah. As a rule, my father the Rebbe [Rashab] was accustomed to reciting keri'as shema on the approach to midnight, each night, even if he would lie down at a later hour—this was done without anyone noticing. On those nights during which he would not recite keri'as shema she-al ha-mittah at all, as mentioned earlier, he would instead sometimes discuss the concept of keri'as shema, and at other times, he would discuss the meaning of the words of keri'as shema.”

Although it is best to remain awake the entire night, if you find yourself falling asleep despite your efforts and you are concerned that you will not be able to remain awake and alert for Shacharis, it is a mitzvah for you to rest a bit towards dawn so that you can pray at the proper time and fully concentrate on your prayers the next morning. Bravely defying sleep only to nod off during keri'as shema and the amidah on the morning of Hoshana Rabbah is ultimately self-defeating.<sup>24</sup>

21) It should be noted that the Yahel Ohr Tehillim includes slight textual variations in the yehi ratzon prayer that is to be recited after concluding Tehillim when it is read at night after the appearance of the moon.

22) There is a halachic debate regarding the need to wash your hands for netilas yadayim without reciting the blessing (al netilas yadayim), as is usually required when eating a food that is dipped in a liquid. See in the various Ha'oros publications. It is somewhat implied from Igros Kodesh (vol. 3, p. 209) that this may be necessary.

23) Sefer HaSichos 5702, p. 100

24) The laws governing one who remains awake the entire night are detailed in the Shavuot edition of From the Day to Day Halachic Guide—please refer there.

Our custom is to recite all the morning brachos as usual, including al netilas yadayim and Elokei neshamah (this is based on a secret—and unofficial—directive of the Friediker Rebbe), even having remained awake the entire night and having not changed clothing. Nevertheless, if possible, it is better to sleep a little before reciting the blessings. The only difference between someone who slept during the night and another who remained awake is that the former may recite these blessings after midnight, while the latter must wait until after dawn to recite these blessings. The same applies to birchas haTorah.

The blessing over the tzitzis may not be recited if the same pair of tzitzis was worn throughout the night and has not been changed from the previous morning. It is best to recite the blessing over another pair, and thereby exempt the original pair from a blessing.

The gabba'im or those who work on behalf of the community bring aravos to Shul to sell to the congregation. This reflects the method of preparation of aravos that was practiced in the Beis Hamikdash. (The beis din's emissaries would bring aravos from Motza, bordering Yerushalayim.)

In the Beis Hamikdash, they would encircle the altar seven times while holding aravos on Hoshana Rabbah. As a remembrance to this practice, the Nevi'im (Prophets) instituted the custom of taking an additional aravah today, in addition to the aravos that are included in the set of arba minim.

Prepare bundles of aravos bound together with rings fashioned from strips of a lulav branch, for each member of your family—men, women, and children. Technically, you may even use a single willow branch with just a single leaf left on it. However, unless you truly have no other choice, this is considered disgraceful. To the contrary, it is customary to seek beautiful willow branches rich with fresh leaves for the sake of glorifying the mitzvah (in keeping with the principle of zeh Keili ve-anveihu, “This is my G-d and I will glorify Him”).

Following the opinion of the Arizal, we take five aravos that are kosher for use in the arba minim.

Like the aravos in the lulav, they should be at least three tefachim in length. They also share the same disqualifications such as being withered or stolen property. However, if the majority of their leaves have fallen, they remain valid (unlike the aravos in the arba minim that would become invalidated).

It is recorded in sefarim that those who are extra scrupulous in their service of Hashem immerse themselves in a mikveh tonight, shortly before dawn. This tevillah is associated with Hoshana Rabbah and not Shacharis. However, this custom is not regularly practiced.

Dawn is at 5:41 am.<sup>25</sup>

FRIDAY, DAY OF HOSHANA RABBAH

Rise early and go to shul early for Shacharis. Wear your Shabbos clothing, but not your kittel, even if you will serve as the chazan today. Extra candles are lit today in Shul. Try to refrain from ordinary weekday tasks until after completing Shacharis and leaving Shul. Some even leave their wallets at home this morning, to avoid carrying any money except for money needed for tzedakah. The prayers are essentially the same as on all other days of Chol Hamoed.

Morning Shema must be said before 9:49 am.

In a sichah, the Rebbe stated: “How good and how pleasant it would be if on this day—a day whose theme is the sweetening of divine judgments—each and every person would give more tzedakah than what they would ordinarily.”<sup>26</sup>

Sha’ar HaKavanos states that “a person must take care to concentrate extremely well on the prayers of the day of Hoshana Rabbah, and to pay extreme attention to his every action on this day, for he still has the opportunity to rectify himself [and positively influence divine judgment regarding his future].”

As on all days of Chol Hamoed, do not wear tefillin. Recite the ordinary weekday Shacharis. Include ya’aleh ve-yavo and recite the complete hallel. Before beginning hallel, however, remove the two uppermost rings on your lulav, leaving only the three rings near its base that bind the lulav with the two other species.

The most basic explanation for removing the lulav’s upper rings is that they retain the lulav’s rigidity by reducing the extent to which it can be shaken and rattled. As a result, they also limit the joy associated with shaking the lulav. Once the rings are removed, shaking the lulav is a more dramatic act and is therefore considered more enjoyable. Since Hoshana Rabbah is the climax and defining day of Sukkos, we want to maximize the shaking and its associated joy. The Rebbe explains this concept in Likkutei Sichos.<sup>27</sup> An additional reason is that the movements to and fro prevent destructive dew as well as destructive winds, and since it is now the time for gmar chasimah, the moment of final approval on this year’s verdict, the rings are removed in order to shake extra well at this critical time.

After hallel, recite hosha’anos. For hosha’anos, every sefer Torah in the aron is removed and held upright beside the bimah. Take your arba minim and encircle the bimah seven times. As mentioned above, this is done to resemble the encircling of the altar in the Beis Hamikdash, which was surrounded with tall willow branches whose bent heads would drape over the altar, while the people circled it seven times.

While circling the bimah, recite all seven stanzas of hosha’anos and hold your arba minim, not your hosha’anos.

The Arizal strictly warned against holding the hosha’anos together with the lulav and other minim. It is therefore best to avoid joining them in any way.

26) Sichah of the Eve of Hoshana Rabbah 5744

27) Vol. 4, p. 1368

“Today is given the name Rabbah, “great.” For all matters of this day are in a manner of greatness. This is observable in the fact that we recite all the hosha’anos, despite the fact that during the previous days [of Sukkos], we recited only each day’s individual hosha’anos. And afterwards – we recite the reminder quietly, or as others are accustomed to doing it in an alternative manner. This is not the place to elaborate on this matter.”

After hosha’anos, recite out loud the passages unique to Hoshana Rabbah, as printed in the Siddur.

We recite many supplications today at the conclusion of hosha’anos because, as mentioned earlier, the world’s water supplies are determined during Sukkos, and mankind’s survival hangs in the balance. Today, this determination reaches its climax.<sup>28</sup>

It is explained in the teachings of Chassidus that the aravos represent channels of elicitation from Above to this world,<sup>29</sup> and that they are sweetened severities, the elicitation of rav chessed, abundant kindness, in a manner of revealed goodness.<sup>30</sup>

In a public letter, the Rebbe writes: In one of the special prayers for today, there is a sentence whose Hebrew wording could be read in two ways. Sha’arei shamayim pesach, ve-otzarcha ha-tov lanu tiftach. If we pause between the words lanu and tiftach, the implication is: “Open the gates of heaven and Your storehouse of goodness open for us!” However, if we read the words ha-tov and lanu together and as a joined phrase, we imply, “Open the gates of heaven and open Your storehouse of that which is good to us!” We make a point of reading the two words as a joined phrase in order to imply the latter meaning. What is the difference between the two? We do not merely want Hashem to give us “goodness,” because sometimes divine goodness enters this world in forms that are perceived by us as intense suffering, although they are undoubtedly sublime, concealed goodness. Rather, according to the second method of reciting this phrase, we ask for what is “good to us”—revealed goodness that we can readily appreciate as welcomed blessings.<sup>31</sup>

The arba minim and today’s aravos are two distinct mitzvot that must not be confused. After fulfilling the mitzvah of lulav and after completing everything associated with it—the hosha’anos and the additional supplications of Hoshana Rabbah, until the loud recital of kol mevaser three times (creating a chazakah)—the lulav’s service is over. Put it aside, in a respectful place. Then take the five aravos. Do not reuse the aravos from the arba minim for this purpose; these five aravos should be new ones that you have designated specifically for the service of Hoshana Rabbah in fulfillment of the custom

28) In Shulchan Aruch Admur HaZaken, the Alter Rebbe records that on this day, it was customary for the congregation to be lenient and recite shema at dawn.

29) Sefer HaSichos 5699, p. 304

30) Ibid., 5704, p. 30. The Rebbe explains this in Likkutei Sichos, vol. 4, p. 1367.

instituted by the Nevi'im, with all the sublime qualities that such a practice brings with it.

Before beating the aravos, all sifrei Torah are returned to the aron. The arba minim are set aside, and the chazzan recites kaddish tiskabel.

Take the aravos and strike them five times against the floor. This action mirrors the sweetening of the five divine elements of severe judgment. This and similar customs are also associated with joy. The Rebbe explains<sup>32</sup> that beating the aravos is similar to sounding the shofar on Rosh Hashanah in that they both imply kabbolas ol, complete dedication to Hashem's will.

Do not strike the aravos more than five times, even if no leaves were shed in the beating. In fact, according to the teachings of the Arizal and the Mekubalim, the leaves are not meant to be removed. The aravos should remain as kosher as the aravos used in the arba minim throughout the beating.

Strike the aravos directly on the floor or ground, not on an intervening object.

After beating the aravos, recite the yehi ratzon that is printed in the Siddur.

The Rebbe's custom is to part the aravos from each other while they were still bound, before beating them. Then the Rebbe beats them lightly on the floor, not on the rug upon which he stands during his prayers.

The custom of beating the aravos is practiced equally by men, women, and children.

Law of Redemption: Tall willow branches are propped up along the sides of the mizbei'ach (altar), with their heads draping over the edge of the actual altar—they should extend one amah over the altar. The kohanim, and according to some opinions also the elders of Yerushalayim (although they are not kohanim), walk around the mizbei'ach holding either a lulav or an aravah. They circle seven times, exclaiming: Ana Hashem hoshi'ah na! Ana Hashem hoshi'ah na!—"Please save us, Hashem!" "Please save us, Hashem!"

The Rema and the Alter Rebbe record<sup>33</sup> the custom of stowing away the aravos for use in a future mitzvah. Some are accustomed to throwing them above the aron kodesh. Although there is a specific reason for doing so, many authorities argue against this custom. The Rebbe would never throw them above the aron; he would leave them on the floor beside his chair or else on the seat of his chair, and on some occasions, he would take them with him at the end of Shacharis (the latter custom is recorded by early halachic authorities).

Although the aravos used for the arba minim may be discarded, do not step on them or discard them in a disrespectful manner. Some authorities state that they may not be thrown into the garbage can along with other garbage; they may be placed in a separate bag and discarded.

It is forbidden to derive benefit from the aravos after using them until Hoshana Rabbah has passed, because they were set aside for a mitzvah and can technically still be used all day for the mitzvah.

Recite shir shel yom, followed by le-David Hashem ori.

After kaddish yasom, one sefer Torah is removed from the aron for kri'as ha-Torah. There are four aliyos. The reading is followed by chatzi kaddish, ashrei, u'va le-tziyon, yehallelu (upon the return of the sefer Torah to the aron), and chatzi kaddish.

Recite Musaf for shalosh regalim. Include the paragraphs: u'va-yom ha-shishi, u'minchasam ve-niskeihem and u'va-yom ha-shevi'i, u'minchasam ve-niskeihem.

The Rebbe distributes lekach (the traditional piece of honey cake) today for those who have not received on erev Yom Kippur.

Try to eat the Yom Tov meal in honor of Hoshana Rabbah before chatzos (halachic midday—12:42 pm), if possible. At the very least, eat it before the tenth halachic hour of the day (3:33 pm).

Dip your challah in honey. This is also associated with sweetening the divine severities.<sup>34</sup>

Eat kreplach, traditional pastry pockets filled with meat, usually cooked in soup<sup>35</sup>.

Throughout Sukkos, we go out of our way to locate Jews who have not performed the mitzvah of lulav to provide them with the opportunity to perform the mitzvah. In a sicha on the eve of Hoshana Rabbah in the year 5751, the Rebbe urged us to invest extra effort in this campaign throughout the day of Hoshana Rabbah due to the unique spiritual quality of the day.

Although you may not be using your arba minim at this point, you are not permitted to eat the esrog. If you are in Eretz Yisrael, you may eat it if you wish only after the conclusion of Hoshana Rabbah. If you are outside of Eretz Yisrael, you must wait until the conclusion of Shemini Atzeres.

The lulav with its hadasim and aravos are considered muktzeh over Yom Tov, now that the time for their use in the mitzvah has expired. They must be stored away where they will not be disturbed for the duration of Yom Tov. The esrog is not considered muktzeh because it may be used for its aromatic scent.<sup>36</sup>

34) as explained by the Alter Rebbe in Ma'amarei Admur HaZaken HaKetzarim, p. 454

35) The reason for this custom is addressed in Sefer HaMinhagim, in the footnotes to the customs of Yom Kippur.

36) Although it is best to avoid enjoying the esrog's fragrance for the duration of

You may not derive personal benefit from the walls, beams, decorations, etc., of the sukkah until the end of Shemini Atzeres and also Simchas Torah (the latter being an extension of the former).

Law of Redemption: No more than 48 blasts may be sounded in the Beis Hamikdash on one day. Today, the maximum number of blasts are sounded: there are the regular 21 that are sounded each day, with an additional 9 for the Mussaf (as on every Shabbos and Yom Tov), a further 12 that are sounded each day of Sukkos, and a final 6 that are sounded on each erev Shabbos

Even someone who customarily trims their nails every erev Shabbos or Yom Tov, may only do so today manually (such as biting them off or with their hands) but not with a blade, scissors or clipper. If they were just clipped on erev Yom Tov last week, you may trim them as usual.

It is a mitzvah to avoid eating a full meal on erev Yom Tov from the tenth halachic hour of the day (3:33 pm), so that you can fully appreciate tonight's Yom Tov meal. Snacking and drinking are permitted until shkia. Magen Avraham states: "Do not be like those who eat, drink, and grow intoxicated on Hoshana Rabbah to the point that they cannot recite kiddush the following night!"

The practice of reading the Parshah on erev Shabbos in the manner of shnayim mikra va'echad targum is dispensed with today.

In preparation for Minchah, omit hodu and recite pasach Eliyahu and yedid nefesh.

Recite Minchah at greater length and with more concentration than usual. Recite le-David Hashem ori at the conclusion of Minchah for the final time this year. Sha'ar HaKollel explains<sup>37</sup> that today is the finalization of our judgment, beyond which there is no further need for the request, ve-niflinu ani ve-amecha—"Make me and Your nation distinguished from all other nations!"—which is accomplished by reciting le-David Hashem ori. As long as the day has not ended, however, despite having completed the extensive Hoshana Rabbah supplications during Shacharis, we still need to recite le-David a final time.

The Rebbe Rashab conducted the Minchah prayer on the Yom Tov in order to avoid the doubt involved in reciting a blessing over its scent, Magen Avraham (and also Chiddushei HaTzemach Tzedek, 198:4) considers it permissible to benefit from its fragrance whenever it is not being used for the actual mitzvah. In addition, once its mitzvah-use has expired on Hoshana Rabbah, there is no longer a doubt as to whether a blessing should be recited. (See Pri Megadim 653, Mishbetzos Zahav, 1. However, see Pri Megadim 216, Mishbetzos Zahav, 14, that according to Taz, it is proper to avoid enjoying its fragrance on Shemini Atzeres as well. See Bikurei Yaakov, 653:2.) Most importantly, one can avoid any issue by smelling another fruit first with a blessing and only then enjoying the esrog's scent. (See Magen Avraham 658, 1. Taz ibid. 4.)

afternoon of Hoshana Rabbah in a manner similar to the night before Rosh Hashanah<sup>38</sup>.

In the homes of the Chabad Rebbes, it was customary for the Rebbes' immediate family to gather in the sukkah to receive the Rebbes' blessing. They would also sit down to eat something and to recite leisheiv ba-sukkah.

YOM TOV PREPS

You must establish an eiruv chatzeiros (if one does not already exist) if one if you intend to carry during Shabbos in a joint courtyard or alleyway that opens to more than one home. This is critical if your sukkah is situated in a shared location.<sup>39</sup>

Rambam states: "When one eats and drinks, he is obligated to feed the convert, the orphan, and the widow, along with the other paupers and disadvantaged. By contrast, one who bolts the doors of his courtyard so that he can eat and drink along with his own children and his wife, without supplying food and drink to the poor and the bitter of spirit—this is not the joy of a mitzvah, but the joy of his own stomach! Such a celebration is disgraceful."

Visit the mikveh today, as on every erev Yom Tov.

Law of Redemption: Rambam states: "All Jews are commanded to ensure that they are ritually pure for each of the festivals (Pesach, Shavuos, and Sukkos) so that they are ready to enter the Beis Hamikdash and partake of the holy sacrifices." The Rebbe explains this requirement at length in Likkutei Sichos.<sup>40</sup>

Give tzedakah in advance for two days—Shemini Atzeres and Simchas Torah.

It is a mitzvah to check your pockets before Shabbos to make sure that you will not inadvertently carry in the public domain on Shabbos. This is especially important when you have been wearing your Shabbos clothing during Chol Hamoed.

It is forbidden to generate a new flame on Yom Tov because creating something new is akin to performing a prohibited activity and since you could have easily prepared a flame in advance of Yom Tov, you are forbidden to do on during Yom Tov itself<sup>41</sup>. You must prepare a flame today that will remain lit long enough to provide fire for candle lighting on the second night of Yom Tov. You may keep a gas burner lit for this purpose.

If you use preset Shabbos timers, do not forget to set it for the two days of Yom Tov.

41) Shulchan Aruch Admur HaZaken 502:1

Safety Alert: Safety and Hatzalah organizations recommend that if you leave a gas stove burner lit for the duration of Yom Tov, make sure to leave the kitchen window open at least 4 inches, and another window open on the other side of the house, to allow adequate cross-ventilation. Also make sure that your carbon monoxide detector is functioning.

If you use Neironim liquid wax candles that are inserted into glass holders, it is advisable to place a little water or oil into the glass before inserting the candle. Do this today, on erev Yom Tov, so that the metal disk that supports the wick will not stick to the bottom of the glass, causing a halachic issue on the second night of Yom Tov.<sup>42</sup>

If possible, and if safety concerns, weather conditions, and other factors permit, light your Yom Tov candles inside the sukkah because that is the location at which you primarily eat your meals. It is sufficient to light just one or two candles in the sukkah and the remainder inside your house.

Candle lighting is at 6:05 pm, which is eighteen minutes before shkiyah (sunset). Recite two blessings prior to lighting the candles: “lehadlik neir shel Shabbos v’shel Yom Tov” and Shehechyanu. If the time for candle lighting has passed, it is not permitted to light them later, G-d forbid. If a man lights the candles, he should reserve the blessing of shehechyanu for the kiddush he will recite later tonight.

If you accidentally did not recite the appropriate brachah or if you forgot to recite shehechyanu, see footnote.<sup>43</sup>

FRIDAY NIGHT, EVE OF SHEMINI ATZERES

The Mittler Rebbe explains: “Shemini Atzeres and Simchas Torah represent the internalization of G-dly light that radiates from chochmah ila’ah (supernal wisdom) into the hearts of all Jewish souls in particular, in a state of complete unity and utter self-nullification, as expressed through the fulfillment of the positive commandments that are specifically observed in actual deed. For that reason, the rejoicing of the Simchas Torah segment of Shemini Atzeres is also observed specifically through actual deed, namely, dancing in circuits, encircling the bimah. This is the place where the Torah is read with actual speech during the rest of the year, while on Shemini Atzeres we encircle the bimah specifically with bodily dance and joy. The hakafos are performed while holding the sefer torah—we specifically grasp the physical dimension of the sefer torah ... This rejoicing is with dance and

42) See entry for the night of Simchas Torah.

43) One who mentioned Yom Tov in the blessing, but forgot to mention Shabbos, or vice versa, should immediately correct it by reciting le-hadlik neir shel shabbos ve-yom tov. If a few seconds have elapsed, there is a debate as to whether the blessing must be repeated. Since the matter is unclear, nothing further should be done to avoid the possibility of reciting a superfluous blessing. (This halachah was explored at length in the Kinus Torah that was held during chol ha-mo’ed Pesach 5779.)

If you forgot to recite shehechyanu, concentrate on fulfilling your obligation when you hear shehechyanu recited during kiddush, later tonight.

action in the physical realm, the source of which is far above chochmah ila'ah, which is the source of the Torah that we elicit via reading the Torah throughout the year.<sup>44</sup>

“Shemini Atzeres is a day that is shamein (fat, i.e., rich) with all types of goodness. All the spiritual goodness and the bestowals of [blessings regarding] children, life (health), and livelihood that was apportioned on Rosh Hashanah are elicited in an all-encompassing manner on Shemini Atzeres! This is the implication of [the verse,] ‘On the eighth [shemini] day’—the day that is shamein (rich) and satiated with all types of goodness. The kesivah va-chasimah tovah of Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur as well as the appendage of final seals on Hoshana Rabbah [comes to a head with Heaven’s] distribution of the actual edicts sealed with blessings on Shemini Atzeres. Thus it is stated, ‘On the eighth day it shall be an Atzeres [stopping work] for you’—meaning that on the day that is rich and satiated [with goodness], you will experience an atzeres. There are two [alternative] meanings to this word. The first is absorption, and the second is leading or conducting, as in the verse, ‘This one will rule over [yatzor (יַעֲזֹר)] My people.’<sup>45</sup> Our personal mode of divine service on Shemini Atzeres is in accordance with the second interpretation, kabbalas ol malchus shamayim, acceptance of the yoke of heaven for the entire coming year.<sup>46</sup>”

“Rabbi Shmuel Gronem mentioned that in the discourse entitled Tzidkas Pirzono it is stated that on Shemini Atzeres, we can ‘revoke the seal.’ To this, the Rebbe [Rashab] responded: This is after the act of sealing that occurs on Hoshana Rabbah. For the purpose of this seal is as in the case of one who sends a letter; he seals it so that no foreign entity can lay hands on its contents. However, once the letter has reached its intended recipient, it is then possible to revoke the seal. Similarly, Shemini Atzeres is [a day referred to as] lachem, ‘for you’ [the Jewish people, to the exclusion of all others]. Consequently, the seal is no longer necessary.<sup>47</sup>”

The Rebbe notes<sup>48</sup> that “the Zohar includes two statements (approaches) regarding the time in which the piskin tavim, ‘good notes’ (ah gutten kvittel) are received—during Hoshana Rabbah or during Shemini Atzeres. This can be explained as follows: Hoshana Rabbah is erev Shemini Atzeres. Therefore, we achieve the acceptance of the good notes on Hoshana Rabbah, so that they can be internalized on Shemini Atzeres, for the extent to which these matters are absorbed during Shemini Atzeres is in direct relation to that which was accomplished through the previous day’s divine service—on Hoshana Rabbah.”

A great number of sichos and ma’amarim regarding the theme of Shemini Atzeres were compiled in Likkutei Sichos Mo’adim, Shemini Atzeres. The Rebbe summarized it this way: “During Shemini Atzeres, all the inclusive lights and revelations that are elicited during the month of Tishrei are absorbed and retained in a goodly sowing, so that they will produce a sprouting of abundant goodness.<sup>49</sup>”

The Rebbe explains this concepts behind the dancing and hakofos at length in countless sichos, which are beyond the scope of this publication.

However, it is worth noting the following directive: “My father-in-law, the [Friediker] Rebbe warned in the name of his father the Rebbe Rashab, that ‘the forty-eight hours of Shemini Atzeres and Simchas Torah must be greatly treasured. With each second, we can draw bucketfuls and barrellfuls of material and spiritual treasures. This is accomplished through dancing!’<sup>50</sup>”

The Freidiker Rebbe writes,<sup>51</sup> “Time was considered extremely precious on Shemini Atzeres. In truth, the spiritual intentions of Shemini Atzeres are the same as for Rosh Hashanah.”

“Listen, we have to talk this through...,” said the Rebbe Rashab.<sup>52</sup> “Until now it was all makifim [generalized spiritual experiences]. We had Rosh Hashanah, Yom Kippur, Sukkos—[all the way] until Shemini Atzeres [which is no longer considered makif]. And Simchas Torah is included in Shemini Atzeres. Now, when it comes to makifim, we cannot discern its parameters ... And I might well add, that the same is true Above: During the time of makifim, we do not know [how things will turn out]. Even He does not know, so-to-speak<sup>53</sup>, because ki im’cha ha-selichah, ‘For forgiveness is with You,<sup>54</sup>’ meaning that Forgiveness is deposited with You from Rosh Hashanah until Yom Kippur. We do not know what is going to do happen with him, with the individual! [Naturally,] we are not discussing da’as elyon, Hashem’s supernal knowledge, for He certainly knows everything. Rather, we are talking in a more general sense.

“...‘For it is a statute for Yisrael, a judgment of the G-d of Yaakov,<sup>55</sup>’ meaning that a decision and judgment is made regarding a Jew’s level of G-dliness. A decision is made regarding just how much G-dly revelation will be drawn down to an individual through the Torah and mitzvos he performs throughout the coming year ... However, this is dependent upon the individual’s input; it corresponds to his divine service of the previous year, and how his Torah and mitzvos ascend [on High]. If it was good, Heaven supplies him with [the ability for] further good ... However, if by Sukkos, he has still not done teshuvah, it is already known Above that the situation isn’t good, and that his “G-d of Yaakov” [i.e. the individual’s G-dly appreciation and experience] is “milbig” [Yiddish for spoiling or wormy], as the expression goes..

“Nevertheless, until Shemini Atzeres he still has time. He can still do teshuvah ... Until Shemini Atzeres it is still a mode of makifim and it is still possible for him to do teshuvah. By contrast, Shemini Atzeres is [when the G-dliness is] drawn down and internalized (b’penimi’us). By then, I already know [how things have turned out].<sup>56</sup>” mirrored this year's, "distinct paths of avodah for each day apply: on Shemini Atzeres we strive to absorb all the spiritual elements internally, and on Simchas Torah (a weekday) we work to reveal the true essence of all created matter that "the whole world belongs to Hashem" and "there is nothing besides Him." This idea is also expressed by the food prep that takes place on Simchas Torah (as opposed to yesterday, Shabbos, when this melacha was prohibited). This added activity is representative of all mundane-related matters that we internalize and then utilize to animate our avodah of serving Hashem—"I was created to serve my Master"—all the way to the point that we reach its manifested, ultimate perfection in the days of Moshiach."

Maariv begins with Mizmor l'David. In Lecha dodi, the text is altered from "b'rinah uv'tzahalah" to read: "b'simchah uv'tzahalah."

The Amidah for shalosh regalim is recited with the additions for Shabbos.

The precise wording of the text in the amidah, as well as in kiddush, is yom hashabbos hazeh v'es yom shemini atzeres hachag hazeh (unlike all other festivals, where the word chag precedes the name of the festival).<sup>57</sup>

If you accidentally recited chag haSukkos instead of the wording for Shemini Atzeres or if you recited the weekday or Shabbos amidah by mistake, or made another mistake in the Amidah, see footnote.<sup>58</sup>

57) For insight into this distinction, see Sefer HaMa'amarim 5683, p. 136; Sefer HaSichos 5706-5710, p. 72; Sichas Acharon Shel Pesach 5724; Sichas Shabbos Bereishis 5751.

58) If you accidentally recited chag haSukkos instead of the wording for Shemini Atzeres, without mentioning Shemini Atzeres even once, there are a number of conflicting opinions as to the best course of action. If you have not yet concluded the blessing, simply return to atah vechartanu. If you have already concluded the blessing, go back to the beginning of the blessing. If you concluded the Amidah, recite the Amidah again. Nonetheless, if this occurs during Shacharis or Minchah of Shemini Atzeres, it is best to ask the chazzan to have you in mind during chazaras haShatz, when he recites the identical blessing correctly. There is no chazaras haShatz during Ma'ariv, so you should repeat the blessing.

Tomorrow, on Simchas Torah, almost all agree you should repeat the blessing. This applies even if you definitely had in mind to recite the wording appropriate for Simchas Torah, but chag haSukkos rolled off your tongue by mistake.

Here is what to do if you accidently recited the ordinary weekday amidah:

If you realize your error while reciting one of the weekday blessings (atah chonein or any subsequent blessing), complete the blessing you have already begun and then continue with the Yom Tov blessings (atah vechartanu, etc.).

If you completed the entire amidah without making any mention of Yom Tov (such as ya'aleh veyavo) or Shabbos, you must repeat the Yom Tov amidah from its start. If you realized your error after the blessing hamachazir shechinaso letziyon but before modim, then simply recite ya'aleh veyavo, mentioning Shabbos as well, and continue with modim, etc.

If you already began modim, as long as you have not recited the second yihyu leratzon at the conclusion of the amidah, you should return to atah vechartanu, towards the start of the amidah.

If you concluded the amidah, having recited the second yihyu leratzon and not having intended to recite any further (personal) supplications, repeat the entire amidah (because you neglected to mention Yom Tov altogether, as mentioned above).

The Amidah is followed with Vayechulu, Magein avos, Kaddish tiskabeil, Mizmor l'David, chatzi Kaddish, Barchu. Do not recite aleinu at this point. Mourners recite Mishnayos and Kaddish Drabanan at this stage.

We wish each other, “Gut Shabbos, Gut Yom Tov!”<sup>59</sup>

Here is what to do if you recited the Shabbos amidah by mistake:

If you are the middle of the section devoted to the Shabbos amidah (i.e., atah kidashta, etc., in Ma'ariv; yismach moshe, etc., in Shacharis; tikanta shabbos, etc., in Musaf; ata e Chad, etc., in Minchah), you should immediately interrupt and begin the Yom Tov section (ata vechartanu). Although you have falsely declared this day Shabbos, you do not need to repeat the amidah.

If you realized your error further into the amidah, as long as you have not recited the second yihyu leratzon at the conclusion of the amidah, you should return to atah vechartanu, towards the start of the amidah.

If you concluded the amidah, having recited the second yihyu leratzon and not having intended to recite any further supplications, repeat the entire amidah.

One who mentions Shabbos and Yom Tov in the main text, but then concludes with a blessing over Shabbos alone (mekadesh ha-shabbos), or Yom Tov alone (mekadeish yisrael, etc.)—should immediately recite the correct formula (mekadeish ha-shabbos ve-yisrael, etc.). But if a few seconds have elapsed after concluding the blessing, it is too late to correct. In that case, there is a debate over what should be done; the final conclusion is that to avoid the possibility of reciting a superfluous blessing, the amidah should not be repeated.

What if someone added only one of the references to Shabbos in the main text, but omitted the others? If they have not yet reciting the concluding blessing (mekadeish), they should return to the place at which they erred. But if they have pronounced Hashem's name in that blessing, they should not repeat anything.

Throughout the year, ya'aleh ve-yavo is inserted into the amidah directly after retzei, and it is followed by vesechezenah and the blessing of hamachazir. On Yom Tov, however, it is followed by the main blessing (V'hasee'einu...). What if one recited ya'aleh ve-yavo and then by force of habit continued with vesechezenah and the blessing of hamachazir—omitting the Yom Tov blessing?

If they have not pronounced Hashem's name in the blessing of hamachazir, they should simply return to V'hasee'einu... But if they already pronounced Hashem's name, without going any further, they should conclude the blessing they have started with the appropriate Yom Tov blessing: mekadeish ha-Shabbos ve-yisrael ve-ha-zemanim. If it is too late, and they have already concluded their blessing with hamachazir shechinaso le-tziyon, they must return all the way to atah vechartanu.

One who prays by heart instead of reading from a siddur, and is uncertain whether they recited V'hasee'einu..., must return to atah vechartanu.

One who completed ya'aleh ve-yavo and then, by force of habit, continued with u'venei yerushalayim, as they do when reciting birchas ha-mazon, should simply interrupt and continue with V'hasee'einu. If they pronounced Hashem's name but have not yet concluded bonei verachamov, they should conclude the blessing they have started with the appropriate Yom Tov blessing: Mekadeish ha-Shabbos v-yisroel vehazemanim, etc. But if they already concluded with bonei verachamav, they are forced to return to atah vechartanu.

(See the Hebrew version of this edition for specific references for all of these laws.)

59) Note that the Alter Rebbe in his Shulchan Aruch mentions that some have the practice of reading bameh madlikin every Shabbos. (The Alter Rebbe omits this practice from his Siddur, and it is not Chabad custom to recite it.) Nevertheless, he states that they should not read it when Shabbos coincides with either Yom Tov or chol ha-mo'ed. The reason? “In order to speed up the simchas yom tov” by not delaying the Yom Tov meal.

Immediately after Ma'ariv, recite kiddush and sit down to a lively farbengen to rejoice together in the joy of the festival. Only then can we consider ourselves fit to conduct hakafos with the appropriate enthusiasm.

On the eve of Shemini Atzeres in the year 5752, the gabbai in 770 announced that a kiddush would be held in the sukkah. The Rebbe then stated: "When the gabbai announces that we may recite kiddush, then since the concept of a gabbai is alluded to in Torah—for the initials of ana ba-ko'ach gedulas yemin'cha ("We implore You, by the great power of Your right hand...") form the letters of 'gabbai'—we must recite kiddush! Moreover, the kiddush should be held in a manner that makes it discernable that it is associated with "You shall sanctify yourselves [v'hiskadashtem] and you shall be holy [kadosh], for I am Holy!" Since this is the kiddush of Shemini Atzeres, which is when all the spiritual accomplishments of the preceding days are retained and internalized, then all [good] matters are drawn from it for the entire coming year, ensuring that it is a year of light, a year of blessing, and so on."

Recite kiddush and eat in a sukkah. This is necessary due to the halachic consideration that today may be the genuine seventh day of the festival, not its eighth day. However, due to the same uncertainty, do not recite the blessing leisheiv basukkah. Halachic authorities such as the Magen Avraham record varied customs on this issue. We, however, follow the directive of the Frierdiker Rebbe to eat in the sukkah by night and also the following day. In fact, those who are meticulous to avoid drinking outside a sukkah continue this practice throughout Shemini Atzeres.

In numerous sichos, the Rebbe states that sitting in a sukkah during Shemini Atzeres serves to transform the sukkah into a house, similar to the era of the Redemption.<sup>60</sup>

Since there is an issue with reciting leisheiv basukkah, as described above, avoid eating in the evening until the night has completely set.

Regarding the challah that was used to establish the eiruv chatzeiros: if the eiruv chatzeiros that was made before the onset of Yom Tov was not intended to remain in effect for the rest of the year, it should be used for the meal on Shabbos, after Shacharis. Or, as the Alter Rebbe adds in parentheses, it can be used for the meal on the night of Shabbos, provided that the meal is held when it is unquestionably past nightfall<sup>61</sup>.

The Rebbe's father ruled that if someone forgot to make an eiruv chatzeiros and all of the people living in the area that surrounds the shared courtyard eat in a single sukkah, an eiruv is not necessary because they are considered members of a single household. In that case, the sukkah itself is their eiruv.<sup>62</sup> If your neighbors do not eat

60) See also Roshei Devarim, during the meal on the night of Shemini Atzeres 5730

61) The Rebbe explains the reason for the distinction between eiruv tavshilin and eiruv chatzeiros in this regards, in Likkutei Sichos, vol. 16, Beshalach 4. In fn. 41 the doubt regarding eating the challah at the evening meal after nightfall is addressed.

62) see Mei'iri, Eiruv 73a and Tzaddik La-Melech, vol. 7, p. 240

in a single sukkah, ask a Rav for a way to permit carrying in the courtyard.<sup>63</sup>

The Shabbos preparations for kiddush are recited quietly. They are: shalom aleichem; eishes chayil; mizmor le-Dovid; and da hi se'udasa.<sup>64</sup>

Kiddush begins with Askinu for Yom Tov followed by yom hashishi. (If one forgot this, see footnote.<sup>65</sup>) Then borei pri ha-gafen. In the next section, the references to Shabbos are added, and the concluding blessing reads: mekadeish ha-Shabbos ve-yisrael ve-ha-zemanim — do not recite leisheiv ba-sukkah (if you mistakenly said it, see footnote<sup>66</sup>)— and then shehechyanu. (This blessing is required because Shemini Atzeres is an independent Yom Tov, distinct from the preceding days of Sukkos. If you forgot to recite it, see footnote.<sup>67</sup>)

If you forgot the Shabbos citation, or said Kiddush exclusively for Shabbos see footnote<sup>68</sup>.

If a woman recites kiddush, she should not recite the 63) see my grandfather's She'arim Mitzuyanim BeHalachah Kuntres Acharon 135.

64) It seems obvious that the askinu for Shabbos is also recited quietly. See Hebrew version for references.

Similarly, there is no clear directive regarding reciting or singing the Shabbos zemiros such as Azameir Bish'vachin. It seems pretty clear that these are not recited or sung tonight, even if one is scrupulous to do so every other Shabbos of the year. This is certainly the widespread practice. On the other hand, there is still room for debate in light of the fact that the Rebbe publicly instructs to sing B'nei Heichalah to the Alter Rebbe's tune during the farbrengen of the last day of Yom Tov that coincides with Shabbos.

65) One who forgot to recite va-yechulu should pour a cup of wine in the middle of the meal and recite the paragraph of vayechulu over it.

66) You do not repeat kiddush if you said leisheiv ba-sukkah tonight. However, on Simchas Torah, you say the bracha of borei pri ha-gafen again. If you begin to say the bracha, end the blessing with the words borei pri ha-gafen. (By extension, someone who lives in Eretz Yisroel should do so on Shmini Atzeres as well.) The same applies to making leisheiv ba-sukkah on bread these days.

67) If you forgot to recite shehechyanu on the first night (eve of Shemini Atzeres) and only realized your omission during the following day, recite it during the daytime kiddush or any time you remember that day.

68) If you did not mention Shemini Atzeres at all, or if you neglected to say all the Shabbos additions, but remembered before the final bracha, go back to the bracha of asher bachar banu. If you only realized after you completed Kiddush, repeat the final bracha, being sure to include both Shabbos and Shemini Atzeres.

If you said the Shabbos Kiddush, but reminded yourself before completing it, and said the conclusion of the bracha properly—mekadesh ha-shabbos v'yisroel v'hazmanim, you are yotze.

If you said a final bracha that mentioned only Shabbos or Yom Tov, you can immediately correct your omission by repeating the proper ending. However if any time has passed (an interval the length of the greeting "Shalom Aleichem rabe"), you must repeat the entire Kiddush.

The solution for someone who mistakenly said Kiddush for chag ha-sukkos is mentioned above in the footnote under the Ma'ariv heading.

shehechyanu blessing—provided she already recited it that afternoon, at candle lighting.

In numerous sichos, the Rebbe states that tonight's ushpizin are Shlomo haMelech (as mentioned in Zohar) and the Frieddiker Rebbe. On many occasions, the Rebbe explained that Yosef haTzaddik is associated with Shemini Atzeres.<sup>69</sup> The Rebbe also explained that on Shemini Atzeres, the ushpizin are no longer ushpizin, "honored guests," at all. Rather, they become ushpizichin, "honored hosts," the ba'alei batim. [Their influence is not temporary or superficial, but permanent and dominant.]

According to ancient practice, we perform hakafos, circling the aron or bimah while holding the Sifrei Torah and dancing and singing with great joy on the eve of Shemini Atzeres, just as we do on the eve of Simchas Torah. If you have conducted hakafos in your own shul and then visit another shul where the hakafos are ongoing, you should participate in their hakafos and dance and sing along with them.

According to minhag yisrael (which is treated as an organic part of Torah), we rejoice on Shemini Atzeres and Simchas Torah to a far greater extent than during the simchas beis hasho'eivah, and more so than on any other Yom Tov.

During [tonight's] Hakkafos with the sifrei Torah, let every individual undertake to work, with actual mesirus nefesh, in the cause of Torah education. Under the mantle of each sefer Torah are its letters, inscribed on the pristine parchment. This is Atzmus, the very Essence of Elokus. The Torah and neshamos are both rooted in Atzmus.

Hence, when a person takes hold of a sefer Torah, we can literally say, "It is Me Whom you are taking!"

Not everyone has a head and a heart, but everyone has legs. On Simchas Torah all Jews are the same; there are no differences. So during Hakkafos, let everyone keep in mind the concept of actual mesirus nefesh in the cause of Torah. That is the real meaning of Simchas Torah, the Rejoicing of the Torah – that the Torah should be happy with us.<sup>70</sup>

...My father once asked his father, "What is the inner meaning of Hakkafos?"

The Rebbe Maharash replied: "Hakkafos means that we ask our father – our Father in Heaven – with tears of blood ('My tears have been my bread'): 'Have pity, and break off the yoke of the gentile nations (goyim) from our necks.' Goyim here means the body and the animal soul. True, we dance happily with the sefer Torah in hand, with a clear head and a clear heart, but deep inside there are tears of blood."<sup>71</sup>

We recite the seventeen verses of atah horeisa that are printed in the Siddur. (Seventeen is the numeric value of tov, "goodness".) We repeat the entire passage three times, separating the repetitions with lively niggunim. Following that, we recite av harachamim, etc. In numerous instances, the Rebbe instructed that specific additional verses be added for that particular occasion. In more recent times, it became the Chabad custom to add the verse beginning with Vehayah zaracha (which contains U'faratztah), and to repeat it three times in a row.

וְהָיָה זְרַעְךָ כְּעֵפֶר הָאָרֶץ וּפְרֻצְתָּ יָמָה וְקִדְמָה וְצַפּוֹנָה וְנִגְבָּה וְנִבְרָכוּ בְּךָ כָּל מִשְׁפְּחֹת הָאָדָמָה וּבְזֵרְעָךָ.
 “And your seed shall be as [numerous as] the dust of the earth, and you shall spread to the west and to the east, to the north and to the south; and in you and in your progeny shall all the families of the earth be blessed.<sup>72</sup>”

These verses were usually only added on the eve of Simchas Torah, but in the years 5750 and 5752, it was added on the eve of Shemini Atzeres as well.

It is explained in many Chassidic discourses that the verses of atah hareisa that are recited aloud before hakafos express the reasons for our rejoicing. In this, they serve as similar function to the verse of kingship (malchuyos), remembrances (zichronos), and shofar-sounding (shofaros) that we recite on Rosh Hashanah by way of explanation and scriptural proof texts for the themes of Rosh Hashanah.

During the farbrengen on the eve of Simchas Torah in the year 5751, the Rebbe explained that “in addition to these verses presenting the reasons and scriptural proof texts for the concept of hakafos, the act of reciting these verse are also an actual prayer. The effect of this prayer is that the themes described in these verses are accomplished in actuality, overtly, and in our reality.”

The Rebbe Rayatz said,<sup>73</sup> “In truth, I should clarify all of the verses of atah hareisa, but I rely on the chassidim—that they [already] know. Oh, they know! I only wish they would put into practice as much as they know!”

It is the Chabad custom to recite the verses of atah hareisa three times.<sup>74</sup>

“Since we recite these verses before hakafos three times,” the Rebbe said,<sup>75</sup> “And since we hold hakafos three times (i.e., on the eve of Shemini Atzeres, and during both the eve and day of Simchas Torah), we recite them a total of three-times-three. The significance of this is that [as our Sages inform us], ‘Three times forms a chazakah.’ By doing so, we emphasize that our recital of these verses is for the sake of introducing the elicitation and revelation into the reality of this world in a manner of strength and forcefulness.”

After elucidating the seventeen verses of atah hareisa on the eve of Simchas Torah in the year 5750, the Rebbe stated,<sup>76</sup> “We conclude with av ha-rachamim... ‘Most compassionate Father! May it be Your will to do good to Tziyon—rebuild the walls of Yerushalayim! For we put our trust in You alone, King, sublime and exalted G-d, G-d of all the worlds! Then, according to the Chabad custom of the latter years, we add the 73) Sichas Leil Simchas Torah 5707. The Rebbe explained the spiritual meanings and deeper implications of these seventeen verses during the eve of Simchas Torah farbrengens in the later years. Much of this material has been compiled in Likkutei Sichos Mo’adim, Shemini Atzeres, and in Sha’arei HaMo’adim, Shemini Atzeres. See in detail, Sichas Leil Simchas Torah 5750-52. In addition, countless sichos of the Rebbeim explain select portions of these verses.

following verse, ve-hayah zar'acha... 'And your seed will be as the dust of the earth, and you will burst forth westward and eastward and northward and southward; and through you will be blessed all the families of the earth and through your seed!'<sup>77</sup> This conclusion implies that all of the preceding matters are fulfilled in a manner of bursting through limitations to the extent that they are even brought to and achieved among all the families of the earth!<sup>78</sup>

"We add the prayer av ha-rachamim ... and according to Chabad custom, we then add by way of conclusion, 'Ve-hayah zar'acha...'"<sup>78</sup>

We then remove all the Sifrei Torah from the aron and circle around the bimah. As we do so, we recite ana Hashem hoshi'ah na and the verses printed in the Siddur, followed by further singing and dancing (as per custom and as stated in the Siddur).<sup>79</sup>

Law of Redemption: During a sichah on the night of Simchas Torah in the year 5749, the Rebbe stated that we will go to hakafos together with all of the ushpizin, led by our righteous Moshiach. And then, the Rebbe added, we will ask Moshiach whether we are to perform seven or ten circuits of hakafos.

It is traditional to honor the Rebbe himself with the first and last hakafah.

One who is in their year of mourning should not go alone to the hakafah; he should designate someone to accompany him.

The chazzan concludes each hakafah with the cry of "Ad kan hakafah alef!" "Ad kan hakafah beis!" and so on. Sha'ar HaKolel clarifies<sup>80</sup> in the name of the Alter Rebbe that in this proclamation, the intention of ad kan is "until here"—and no further. This means that the revelation achieved through each hakafah concludes within the realm of holiness and not dissipate further into the realm of the unholy, so that the kelipah cannot siphon vitality from the abundance of revelation. In Sichas Leil Simchas Torah 5735, the Rebbe explained that the Chabad Rebbeim insisted on this announcement because the revelation of each hakafah is infinite. Without this proclamation it would continue indefinitely, whereas the goal is to introduce the revelation into the finite details of this world.

At the end of each hakafah, we return all Sifrei Torah to the aron.

Fifty years ago, on the night of Shemini Atzeres 5731, the Rebbe spoke before the fourth Hakafa about announcing the names of appointed spiritual leaders who are each responsible for a different country, creating a kind of "holy Torah-based assembly." (This was along the theme of a Ma'amar the Rebbe delivered on the second day of Sukkos on the possuk

77) Bereishis 28:14

78) At this point, on the eve of Simchas Torah 5752, the Rebbe recited the entire verse in the tune reserved for the verses of atah hareisa. He did so three times, and each time, the congregation repeated it after him in similar fashion.

79) For an explanation of the text of all seven hakafos, see for example, Sichas Yom Shemini Atzeres 5704, Address to the Yeshivah Students (published as Kuntras HaKafos 5704).

regarding the nations of the world praising Hashem, and then in the subsequent Sicha referencing the U.N. Assembly during that time and the need for an equivalent spiritual U.N. assembly )

In Sefer HaSichos 5704,<sup>81</sup> the Friediker Rebbe explained the phrase “ozeir dalim”. Among other things, he directed that “after we recite the word ‘ozeir’ we must pause, and only then recite the word ‘dalim’. We attain the level of ozeir dalim through dancing on Shemini Atzeres and on Simchas Torah. However, our dancing must be done with truth so that the Torah will rejoice together with us.”

After the hakafos, recite aleinu. Kaddish yasom is then recited.

The Badatz has repeatedly issued advisories to remind and warn about the necessity of adhering to the Rebbe’s takanah (enactment) regarding alcoholic beverages. Do not drink too much alcohol! This is especially important for those under the age of forty, and particularly for bachurim. Even those over forty must exercise restraint.<sup>82</sup> It is the responsibility of mashpi'im to reach out and clarify all the details of this takanah, as explained in Sichos Kodesh. The takanah remains in force during Simchas Torah as well.<sup>83</sup> Moreover, it is insufficient to exercise restraint personally; each of us must see to it that those around us follow suit.<sup>84</sup>

During the meal tonight, do not dip your challah in honey. In Likkutei Dibburim,<sup>85</sup> the Friediker Rebbe clarifies that “on Shemini Atzeres and on Simchas Torah, we have no need for honey because everything is already prepared Above. If, however, there happens to be honey on the table, then we go ahead and dip in honey as well.”

In birchas hamazon, Retzei is recited for Shabbos, followed with ya'aleh veyavo for Yom Tov<sup>86</sup>. If you forgot either, see footnote.<sup>87</sup>

85) p. 8

86) If you reversed the order and said first ya'aleh veyavo and then Retzei you don't have to go back. However: if you remember before reaching the words b'yom Shmini Atzeres Hachag hazeh, interrupt ya'aleh veyavo and begin Retzei and then ya'aleh veyavo.

87) If you forgot Retzei or ya'aleh veyavo but realized your error before pronouncing Hashem's name at the conclusion of the blessing bonei Yerushalayim, simply return to Retzei and ya'aleh veyavo. If you already pronounced Hashem's name, finish that blessing and then recite the text printed in the Siddur for this purpose: Baruch ... shenassan shabosos lim'nuchah l'amo Yisrael b'ahava l'os v'livris v'yomim tovim l'sasson ul'simchah, es yom chag hasukkos hazeh; baruch ... mekadeish haShabbos v'Yisrael v'haZemanim. (This is the text recited when both Retzei and ya'aleh veyavo were omitted. If only one of them were forgotten, the text is slightly different, as indicated in the Siddur.)

However, if you already began the next blessing after bonei Yerushalayim—even if you merely recited the word “Baruch” of that blessing—repeat the entire birchas hamazon from the beginning. When repeating bentching, recite both Retzei and ya'aleh veyavo, even if you omitted only one of them. This applies to Recite the harachman for Yom Tov but not the ha-rachaman for Sukkos.

The Rebbeim would study laws from Choshen Mishpat during Shemini Atzeres.

The Rebbe said,<sup>88</sup> “What should one do if he did not study any laws from Choshen Mishpat during Shemini Atzeres, and he now claims that [as a result,] he also does not wish to rejoice?! Why, such a claim comes from the Other Side [the yetzer hara]! This is similar to the adage of Rabbi Nachum of Chernobyl, as related in the sichos of my father-in-law, the [Friediker] Rebbe.<sup>89</sup> Reb Nachum planned to give a pauper the vast sum he desperately needed, but then thought to multiple his mitzvah by giving him only part and dividing the rest among many other paupers. He then realized that this second, seemingly righteous idea was actually the yetzer hara’s way of preventing him from fully assisting this man! The [Friediker] Rebbe added that ‘From this we see how important is discernment, always knowing from where a thought is coming.’

“Look, on Shemini Atzeres, this fellow perused a newspaper, or went for a stroll, or downed sweet tea accompanied by a slice of cake, and his nefesh ha-behamis left him alone in all this. But when it comes time to dance, he suddenly claims that since he is a Lubavitcher chassid and he failed to study, at the very least he should not be dancing!

“He finds himself with two choices: He can either drag the nefesh ha-behamis into the dance with him, or he can simply leave altogether... What a pathetic situation to find oneself in!

“Rather, yishteh ve-yishkach risho, “Let him drink and forget his poverty!”<sup>90</sup> Let him drink with abandon and crawl his way out—together with me—from a place where we should not be, to the extent that even ‘a hoof shall not remain’<sup>91</sup> there!

“Our rejoicing on Shemini Atzeres is cloaked by the mantle of kabbalas ol, acceptance of the yoke of heaven.<sup>92</sup>” The Rebbe also explains<sup>93</sup> that the kabbalas ol of one who has attained the spiritual stature of eved ne’eman, “a faithful servant,” is powerful enough to also include delight and joy.”

The Friediker Rebbe recalls,<sup>94</sup> “During Simchas Torah in Lubavitch, we would seek ways to laugh! It once happened that during the recital of the verses of atah hareisa, an individual intoned the verse, v'imru hoshi'einu (‘Say: Save us, G-d of our salvation! Gather us and deliver us from among the nations!’ etc.), but he recited it with tremendous seriousness. The Rebbe [Rashab] said, ‘Why so serious?! Simchas Torah is an entirely different theme!’”

SHABBOS, DAY OF SHEMINI ATZERES

Morning Shema must be said before 9:50 am.

Today’s davening is Shacharis for Shabbos and Yom Tov. Say the Shemonah Esrei for Shalosh Regalim (Shemini Atzeres) with the additions for Shabbos.

During Musaf, we exchange morid hatal for mashiv haru'ach u'morid hageshem. However, if before reciting the amidah of Shacharis you hear an official announcement of this change, you must apply this change to your Shacharis amidah as well, provided you are not praying Musaf with a different minyana.

The Rebbeim would sometimes make a point of concluding Shacharis on Shemini Atzeres before chatzos (halachic midday).

The Shacharis amidah is followed by the complete hallel (it is a positive command of Rabbinic origin to recite the entire hallel on each of the eight days of the festival, i.e., Sukkos and Shemini Atzeres). There are no hosha'anos today.

After Hallel, recite kaddish tiskabel, shir shel yom, and kaddish yasom.

When the aron is opened, Yud Gimmel Middos and Ribbono shel Olam are not recited as it is Shabbos.

Two Sifrei Torah are removed and seven people are called up for aliyos. The Torah reading is the portion beginning Aseir Te'aseir<sup>95</sup>.

Following that reading, the second Sefer Torah is placed alongside the first (we do not remove the first so as not to lose focus on a mitzvah that is presently before us), and chatzi kaddish is recited. After the first Torah has been raised and wrapped, the second is opened for the reading of maftir. The reading is bayom hashemini, from Parshas Pinchas. The haftorah is then read (from vayehi kechallos until u'leyisrael amo). The book Sefer HaHaftoros Chabad unintentionally includes an additional verse in the haftorah; this should be ignored.

In the bracha on the Haftorah, we mention shabbos and shemini atzeres ha-chag ha-zeh and conclude with mekadesh hashabbos v'yisroel v'hazmanim. If you made a mistake in the bracha, see footnote.<sup>96</sup>

After reading the haftorah, recite yekum purkan.

95) This is the Torah reading whether Shemini Atzeres coincides with Shabbos or a weekday, for Shemini Atzeres is the time for separating ma'asros.

96) What if one made no mention of Shabbos at all, or no mention of Yom Tov? If they have not pronounced Hashem's name at the end of the blessing, they should go back and mention them as appropriate. If they have already pronounced Hashem's name, if they remember within a few seconds, they should conclude with mekadeish ha-shabbos ve-yisrael ve-hazemanim. If a few seconds have passed, they must go back to the beginning of the blessing.

Note, however, that if one recited a version of the blessing that was exclusively for Shabbos or exclusively for Yom Tov, and yet recited an inclusive concluding blessing (mekadeish ha-Shabbos ve-yisrael ve-hazemanim), they have fulfilled their obligation and should not repeat anything.

In the reverse case, where one made reference to both Shabbos and Yom Tov in the main body of the text, but concluded with a blessing that is exclusive to Shabbos or Yom Tov, they should immediately correct the concluding blessing. If a few seconds have elapsed, it is too late: they must repeat the blessing from the beginning.

Yizkor is recited today (even though today is Shabbos). If you pray alone at home, you should nevertheless recite yizkor, if necessary. Yizkor if followed by av harachamim.

The difference between Yizkor and Av harachamim is that yizkor is recited by individuals in the merit of particular souls, whereas Av harachamim is recited by the public in the merit of all departed souls from the departed Jewish community at large. Usually, on a day on which Tachanun is not recited, Av harachamim is also omitted because it is a universal form of Yizkor. But today, when individuals need to recite Yizkor, they recite Av harachamim as part of that service, so it may also be recited by those who do not need to recite Yizkor, if they so wish.

Recite Ashrei and yehallelu (as the Sifrei Torah are being returned to the aron). The chazzan then recites chatzi kaddish.

The congregation is not permitted to recite mashiv haru'ach until they first hear the chazzan recite it in his repetition of the amidah. However, it is customary for the gabbai to announce, “Mashiv haru'ach u'morid hageshem!” This is announced immediately prior to the congregation beginning their silent amidah. This announcement is considered equal to hearing the phrase recited by the chazzan. As a result, we may include the phrase in our silent amidah. The gabbai must therefore take care to announce the entire phrase, as above.

It is forbidden to recite Musaf on Shemini Atzeres before the congregation has begun Musaf, because we may only request geshem, rain, after the announcement is made in shul. If you pray alone at home, you must nevertheless wait until the time at which the congregation will recite this prayer before beginning Musaf.

Mashiv haru'ach is introduced into the second blessing of the amidah today because the world's water needs are determined during the festival of Sukkos. We do not pray for rain during the festival itself, however, because rain on Sukkos prevents us from remaining in the sukkah and is therefore considered an unfavorable sign from Above. As soon as the seven days of obligatory sukkah-dwelling have passed, we pray for rain. However, we do not begin on the eve of Shemini Atzeres, but only on the following morning. This is because the entire community does not always gather at night for Ma'ariv, whereas they are all present in the morning for Shacharis. We do not wish to introduce a change in our prayers that some will observe at one time and others at another. Nor do we begin during the Shacharis amidah, but rather, we wait until Musaf. This is to allow the chazzan or gabbai to announce the change before the congregation begins their individual recitations of the amidah. The gabbai cannot possibly announce the change immediately prior to the Shacharis amidah because he may not interrupt at that point in the prayers. Before Musaf, by contrast, he may make any announcement he wishes.

The association between Shemini Atzeres and the prayer for rain is explained in numerous ma'amarim of Chassidus, based on Kisvei HaArizal: the word atzeres means to take in and absorb one matter within another. The exalted spiritual revelations that were elicited during the festival of Sukkos are taken in and absorbed during Shemini Atzeres. At this point, the revelations are integrated within a person's innermost being. The same theme is evoked by the prayer for rain—morid hageshem, “Let the rain descend”—which represents the elicitation of the drop of seed that is taken in and absorbed.

We mention rain at this point by way of appeasement, meaning that instead of waiting until we are forced by circumstance to pray for rain, we mention it in advance while praising Hashem's mighty acts. This request is placed in the second blessing of the amidah—the blessing of mechayeh meisim, “He who brings the dead to life,” because rainfall is considered equal to resurrection in that it brings life to the world.

If you forgot to introduce this change, see footnote.<sup>97</sup>

Recite additions for Shabbos before Yom Tov, for example, ess musfei yom ha-shabbos hazeh v'ess yom shemini atzeres ha-chag ha-zeh... and also the additional paragraphs for Shabbos before and after the ones that speak of the musaf offering for Shemini Atzeres. If you omitted the Shabbos or Yom Tov additions, see footnote.<sup>98</sup>

During Musaf, recite the sacrificial verses of the day: bayom hashemini and uminchasam. If you omitted them or recited the verses for the wrong day, or made another mistake, see footnote.<sup>99</sup>

97) If you recited morid hatal instead of mashiv haru'ach, you do not need to repeat anything—even if you have not yet completed that blessing.

This is the law despite the fact that there is no urgent need to pray for dew, seeing that Hashem grants it on an uninterrupted basis. Nevertheless, it is fitting to praise Hashem for the dew just as we do for the rain, for both are forms of sustaining life and providing produce. In fact, Chazal often refer to dew as “the dew of resurrection.” (Unlike rain and dew, the wind is not considered life-giving to the same extent, despite the fact that it is critical for the functioning of nature.) The practice of praying for dew throughout the summer months was instituted so that if during the winter season one forgot to request rain and wind, he will at least have requested dew as he was accustomed to doing throughout the summer. In other words, morid hatal serves as a backup request if one forgot mashiv haru'ach, and there is no need to repeat the prayer.

98) One who only recited the Shabbos verses and not the verses for Shemini Atzeres, or vice versa, should always return to recite them.

What if one began reciting the blessings of the weekday amidah, or of the Shabbos amidah? It is necessary to interrupt whichever incorrect blessing is being recited, and to begin the appropriate Yom Tov section. For other errors, see above, regarding Maariv. (For deeper analysis and references for these laws, see the Hebrew edition.)

99) One who accidentally skipped the verses of the musaf offerings, and realized the error before pronouncing Hashem's name in the concluding blessing (mekadeish), should return to recite those verses, and continue from there. One who already pronounced Hashem's name should not return.

The conclusion of the blessing in Musaf is important. If you recite the entire blessing correctly, but conclude with mekadesh haShabbos or mekadesh Yisrael v'hazemanim instead of mentioning both Shabbos and Yom Tov, see footnote.<sup>100</sup>

During the chazzan's repetition, he recites a special section devoted to praying for rain. It begins af b'ri.

The kohanim recite birkas kohanim. While they do so, the congregation should move their heads in the following sequence: Yevarechaha—head erect; Hashem—lean head to the right; Veyishmerecha—head erect; Ya'eir—lean head to left, and so on until Shalom when the head is erect.

Recite the Ribono shel olam prayer only while the kohanim are singing, but not when they pronounce the actual words. At that point, you must remain silent and listen carefully. The prayer is split into three parts: While the kohanim sing before veyaseim, recite from Ribono until hatzaddik; while they sing before lecha, recite from ve'im until Elisha; and while they sing before shalom, recite from u'kesheim until letovah. Then, as they pronounce shalom, recite the three final words vesishmereini, etc. Once the kohanim conclude shalom, say amein followed by adir ba-marom, while still covered by the tallis.

The Frierdiker Rebbe instructed that Velakachta soles be recited on a Shabbos that coincides with Yom Tov. Sheish zechiros (the daily Six Remembrances) is recited.

Law of Redemption: The families of the Kohanim were divided into twenty-four divisions (mishmaros) to rotate their service in the beis hamikdash. When Yom Tov coincides with Shabbos, the lechem hapanim is divided equally among all the members of all the mishmaros, and not only those assigned to that particular week.

Luach Colel Chabad states that mizmor l'Dovid until vayekadesheihu (for Shabbos) is recited in an undertone. This is followed by askinu se'udasa (the Yom Tov version); eileh mo'adei; borei peri ha-gafen. We do not recite leisheiv basukkah.

One who failed to recite shehechyanu last night and only realized the error today should recite the blessing immediately, even without a cup of wine.

According to some poskim, the same halachah applies if you recite the sacrificial verses of the wrong day. Others disagree. In their opinion, if you recite the wrong sacrificial verses, you have not fulfilled your obligation. Therefore, if you concluded the blessing, return to the beginning of the blessing and recite the correct verses. The latter opinion was mentioned by the Rebbe at a farbrengen as the straightforward halachah. This has been addressed in B'asra D'rav 3 fn. 26.

100) If you realize your error immediately, simply correct yourself. If a few seconds have elapsed (enough time to exclaim, "Shalom aleichem, Rabbi!"), you may have invalidated the blessing. The halachic authorities are in disagreement over the appropriate course of action: Does the erroneous conclusion invalidate the blessing or does the mention of both Shabbos and Yom Tov in the text preceding the blessing cover the error? In order to avoid the possibility of reciting a blessing in vain, do not repeat the Amidah.

Men must drink a revi's of wine each day of Yom Tov in order to fulfill their obligation of rejoicing during the festival. This obligation can be fulfilled with the cup of wine used for kiddush. Children fulfill this obligation by receiving treats. The Friediker Rebbe would drink a revi's of wine with each meal.

The mitzvah of oneg yom tov calls for drinking wine with each meal, if you can afford it, and also increasing in meat and delicious foods, as much as your means allow.

On the last day of the festival, i.e. Shmini Atzeres, it is the Jewish custom to eat a large meal and increase in simcha by eating meat.<sup>101</sup>

Recite birkas hamazon as on last night.

Law of Redemption: In the Beis Hamikdash, the following offerings are brought today—a single cow, a single ram, and seven lambs. All of these are olos, burnt-offerings. A single goat is offered as a chata, sin-offering. This is in addition to the regular Shabbos Musaf offerings. (The significance of these Shemini Atzeres offerings are explained in numerous teachings of Chassidus.)

Shnayim Mikra for Parshas Vezos Haberachah is read today, erev Simchas Torah. It is usually read on an erev Shabbos because that is the day before the parshah is read from the Torah. Vezos Haberachah is not read from the Torah on a particular Shabbos, but rather on Simchas Torah, and therefore its shnayim mikra preview must be read on the preceding day of Shemini Atzeres.<sup>102</sup>

It is forbidden to prepare anything today for the second day of Yom Tov, i.e. Simchas Torah, even through a non-Jew.<sup>103</sup>

It is best to avoid sitting down to a meal after the tenth hour of the day (Approx. 3:32 pm), so that one will be able to eat the meal tonight—the second night of Yom Tov—with an appetite. However, if one has forgotten and did not eat the seudas Yom Tov before this time, they should do so even after this time.

During Minchah, since it is Shabbos, we do recite va'ani tefilasi.<sup>104</sup> The beginning of Parshas Ve'zos Ha'berachah is read.

The amidah is for Shalosh Regalim, but with the Shabbos additions. Tzid'kasecha is not recited.

Some are accustomed to recite a yehi ratzon prayer upon leaving the sukkah for the final time this year—May it be Your will that

101) "For on this day one cannot do without meat, and everyone purchases it in honor of yom tov because it is an independent Yom Tov of Succos which is dear to them"; "Therefore, the Sages relied on the original law of the Torah on erev yom tov, that by paying the money one legally acquires the meat, without needing to take physical possession; and "Someone who sells an animal to another on erev Yom Tov must inform him if he has sold its mother or its child to be slaughtered so that the second animal will not be slaughtered the same day."

102) Sichas Yom Simchas Torah 5746

104) Seeing that fasting is prohibited, and that there is an emphasis on celebrating with food and drink.

we merit to dwell in the sukkah made of the leviyasan!<sup>105</sup> It is not the Chabad custom to recite this prayer.

The Chabad custom is to take leave of the sukkah by entering it and eating or drinking something there towards the end of the day on Shemini Atzeres. In the sichah,<sup>106</sup> the Rebbe states that this is done in the “final moments” of the day. The blessing of leisheiv basukkah is not recited.

Tahaluchah: “It has been customary for many years now to visit shuls in many different neighborhoods, on each festival, in order to increase the joy of the festival through uniting with the many Jews of other neighborhoods, and especially by sharing words of Torah (“Hashem’s laws are just; they gladden the heart”)—teachings culled from both nigleh and penimi’us ha-Torah.<sup>107</sup>”

The Rebbe also states,<sup>108</sup> “It has become customary in recent years for bachurim and married men to visit [other] Shuls and celebrate the Simchas Torah hakafos there, in order to (introduce the novelty of fresh guests to the celebration and thereby) amplify the joy of those congregations.”

“The yasher ko’ach (many thanks) that the bachurim who went on tahaluchah deserve is even more than you could imagine!” The Rebbe writes, “Their visit to other Shuls demanded tremendous sacrifice on their part, because they were forced to abandon the farbrengen here and leave their fellow Chabad chassidim and members of Anash, in order to go for several hours to other Shuls! Not only that, but they did so with joy and cheerfulness!<sup>109</sup>”

Someone who has finished eating in their sukkah today and has no intention of eating there at all before the end of the day may remove their possessions from the sukkah from the time of minchah ketanah (4:01 pm). He may not do so earlier because it is not apparent that the removal is conducted in honor of Yom Tov. However, we may not organize these articles in the house today, as per below.

It is forbidden to prepare anything for the last day of Yom Tov until after 7:04 pm and reciting Baruch hamavdil or Vatodi’einu during Maariv, as per below. According to the Alter Rebbe, we may not request a non-Jew to perform such activities either.<sup>110</sup> Even wine cannot be brought today in preparation for tonight’s Kiddush. Similarly, it is forbidden to set up the tables and benches that were brought in from the sukkah; these may be removed from the sukkah and placed within the house (after minchah ketanah), but may only be set up tonight. This is on condition that removing them from the sukkah does not involve carrying. However, if the benches are needed in the home on Shmini Atzeres, or even if one simply wishes to avoid leaving his house looking disorganized, that is sufficient justification to set up the tables and benches.

Cooked meat or other foods should not be removed from the freezer today for the sake of having them defrost in time to use on the last day of Yom Tov.<sup>111</sup>

MOTZAEI SHABBOS, EVE OF SIMCHAS TORAH

“The gates are open on Simchas Torah!” the Frierdiker Rebbe declared on Simchas Torah in the year 5705. “The gates of light, the gates of blessing, the gates of success! All the gates are open! And we receive these things through the Torah!”<sup>112</sup>

“I once entered [the office of] my father-in-law the [Frierdiker] Rebbe,” the Rebbe related during Shabbos Bereishis in the year 5746.<sup>113</sup> “I suggested that we publish a kuntras (booklet) of ma’amarim in honor of the approaching festival of Simchas Torah. The [Frierdiker] Rebbe replied with a smile on his lips, ‘Do you expect people to sit down to study a ma’amor of Chassidus on Simchas Torah?! Nevertheless, in actual practice, I ‘got my way’ and the [Frierdiker] Rebbe issued a ma’amor in order that it be studied during Simchas Torah. They were indeed quite a number of people who studied the ma’amor that Simchas Torah! Do not wonder at the fact that the [Frierdiker] Rebbe had initially thought otherwise of the plan. For there are matters—even those that involve a nasi [leader] of the Jewish people—that must be accomplished through the people’s initiative, despite [the nassi] initially thinking to the contrary.”

From the Frierdiker Rebbe: On Simchas Torah, our Divine service involves pounding with the feet and clapping with the hands. This is in contrast to the rest of the year, when our Divine service involves pounding (working) with the head—not merely opening a ma’amor, but pounding its contents into the head.<sup>114</sup>

Before lighting Yom Tov candles or before performing any other melachah (activity that is prohibited on Shabbos but permissible during Yom Tov), recite Maariv and include Vatodi’einu that is effectively a Havdalah prayer. At the very least, recite Baruch hamavdil bein kodesh l’kodesh before performing these activities.

Light the candles after 7:03 pm and after saying Baruch hamavdil from a flame that has remained lit from before the onset of Yom Tov. Candles are lit at home, not in the sukkah. Someone who forgot

111) It is permitted to remove it from the freezer early enough in the day that it will have time to defrost and could technically be used that same day.

112) Sefer HaSichos 5705, p. 59. The Rebbe explains this at length in Likkutei Sichos, vol. 19, p. 380. See also Sichas Leil Simchas Torah 5712.

113) Sichas Shabbos Bereishis 5746. See there for the rest of the discussion. During Simchas Torah 5730, the Rebbe added a detail regarding the above episode: He had suggested reprinting the ma’amor entitled Heichaltzu because that year was the fiftieth anniversary of the ma’amor’s delivery by the Rebbe Rashab. Indeed, the ma’amor was published in honor of Simchas Torah 5709.

114) Sefer HaSichos 5709, p. 286

to light the gas burner or another 48-hour flame before the start of Shabbos is permitted to ask a non-Jew to light it now.

According to Chabad custom, the candles may be lit right away at the above-mentioned time for candle lighting. There is no reason or purpose for delaying just in order to light the candles right before kiddush.

Light the Yom Tov candles before reciting the blessings, as on erev Shabbos. Two blessings are recited over the candles: 1) lehadlik ner shel yom tov and 2) shehechyanu. If you accidentally recited the wrong brachah or if you forgot to recite shehechyanu, see footnote<sup>115</sup>.

Some are careful to avoid using the Yom Tov candle to light a flame that is not specifically for Yom Tov or to light the gas.

Do not warm the base of a candle and stick it to its holder. This is prohibited as a precaution so that you will not come to directly smoothen or straighten the bottom of the wax candle. Similarly, do not trim the bottom of a candle to insert it more easily into its holder. This would violate the prohibition of mechateich (cutting to shape or size). However, you may firmly press a candle into its position in the holder, even if this will cause its base to erode somewhat to fit the holder—this action is not considered mechateich.

Technically, you may clean out a used candle holder on Yom Tov without fear of violating the prohibition of fixing an article on Yom Tov. Similarly, if using Neronim, you may clean a used glass holder from the metal disk that held the used wick in order to insert a new candle in its place. There is an issue, however, of muktzeh with the remnants of used wax, charred wicks, or spent metal disks. These items are considered muktzeh and may not be moved on Yom Tov<sup>116</sup>.

The solution, if you are using wax candles, is to take the holder over to the garbage can (since the glass holder is not muktzeh, for reasons beyond the scope of this publication), and shake it out so that the remnants of wax and wick fall directly into the garbage can. If it cannot be removed through shaking, or if you are using liquid wax candles and the spent disk has become stuck to the base of the glass

---

115) If you accidentally recited le-hadlik ner shel shabbos kodesh instead of the appropriate blessing, you should immediately correct yourself with the words shel yom tov. However, if a number of seconds pass before you realize your error, you must repeat the entire blessing correctly from the beginning. You can do this as long as the candles remain lit.

If you forgot to recite shehechyanu, concentrate on fulfilling your obligation when you hear shehechyanu recited during kiddush, later tonight.

116) This is especially an issue nowadays, when such items are considered disposable and will not be reused. Even in pre-modern times, when such materials were indeed reused, moving them was somewhat problematic. As the Alter Rebbe explains, “Although according to the strict letter of the law these items are not muktzeh, it is appropriate to be careful not to move them unless for great need”. It is prohibited to move them even for the sake of food preparation.

holder so that it cannot be removed without prying it out with a knife or a similar object, you may not do so during Yom Tov. There is no difference in this case between using a knife and using your fingers—the issue of muktzeh remains. One may however remove it with a shinui, using an item which is not normally used to remove it. The preferred solution is to think ahead (as mentioned earlier) and pour a small quantity of oil into the holder on erev Yom Tov, which would prevent the disk from sticking to the glass in the first place. This would enable you to take the holder to the garbage can during Yom Tov and to empty its contents directly into it.

According to some opinions, a person who failed to read shnayim mikra before any particular Shabbos of the outgoing year may, as a matter of recourse, read the missed portions any time before Simchas Torah. (On Simchas Torah, the Jewish people conclude that particular round of reading from the Torah and begin the cycle again.) It is best to follow this view and to catch up on missed portions before Simchas Torah.

Begin Ma'ariv with Shir Ha-ma'alos. Recite the amidah for the shalosh regalim.

Vatodi'einu is added to the Amidah. If you forgot to recite this section, or made other omissions or errors associated with the Amidah or Havdalah, see footnote<sup>17</sup>. Note that you may not perform activities

117) If you forgot to recite Vatodi'einu but realized your error before reaching Hashem's name at the conclusion of the blessing, begin reciting Vatodi'einu immediately, and then continue with Vatitein lanu, etc., even if you already recited those sections. If you already recited Hashem's name at the conclusion of the blessing, you may not return to the previous prayer, but conclude the Amidah as usual.

If you began reciting the weekday prayer of Atah chonein l'adam da'as, you should complete the blessing—adding the Ata chonantanu section that is usually recited on an ordinary motzoei Shabbos. Then begin the Yom Tov prayer of atah vechartanu and continue with the Vatodi'einu section, despite the fact that you already recited Havdalah in the atah chonantanu.

If you mistakenly continued with the other intermediate blessings for the weekday, you must conclude whichever brachah you have already begun (whether first, thirteenth or any in between) and at its conclusion, continue with the intermediary section for Yom Tov beginning with Atah b'chartanu.

If you completed an entire weekday Amidah in error without any mention of Yom Tov (such as ya'aleh v'yavo), you have not fulfilled your obligation and must repeat the Amidah for shalosh regalim. However, if Yom Tov was mentioned in the weekday Amidah, you do not need to repeat the Amidah for Yom Tov. If you remember that it is Yom Tov after completing the brachah of hamachazir shchinaso l'tzion, say ya'aleh v'yavo for Yom Tov before Modim to meet the requirement, and the Amidah need not be repeated. If you have already begun Modim, return to Atah b'chartanu. However, if you have already recited the second Yi'hiyu l'ratzon (without intention to prolong the Amidah with personal supplications), start over with the Amidah for shalosh regalim.

If you erroneously began the Shabbos Amidah, you should stop at whichever point in the intermediary blessing for Shabbos you are holding and begin Atah b'chartanu.

If you mistakenly ate before reciting Havdalah (bein kodesh l'kodesh), repeat the that are forbidden on Shabbos but are permitted on Yom Tov—until you recite Havdalah during Kiddush or the phrase, Baruch hamavdil bein kodesh l'kodesh.

Tonight, Kiddush also contains Havdalah. Kiddush, preceded by askinu for Yom Tov, is recited in the following order: (1) borei pri hagafen; (2) kiddush (mekadesh yisrael v'hazemanim); (3) borei me'orei ha'esh (4) hamavdil bein kodesh l'kodesh (5) shehechiyanu.

One who recited the various components of tonight's kiddush in the incorrect order has nevertheless fulfilled his obligation—with one exception: the blessing of mekadeish must come before the blessing over wine; if that order was switched, one must repeat the blessing of mekadeish.

The blessing over spices is not recited.<sup>118</sup>

The Chabad custom is to simply gaze at the candles during Havdalah of Yom Tov, but not to draw two candles together, nor are the fingernails extended close to the flames.

The final word of Havdalah is changed from l'chol to l'kodesh. If you mistakenly said l'chol, see footnote.<sup>119</sup> If you forgot to make Havdalah altogether, see footnote.<sup>120</sup>

If you mistakenly said Kiddush for Shabbos, see footnote.<sup>121</sup>

Someone who wishes to eat in the sukkah on Simchas Torah must make it obvious that he is not doing so for the sake of the mitzvah of sukkah. Otherwise, he would appear to be adding to the Torah's laws. How does he make his intention obvious? He can, for example, bring pots and pans into the sukkah, making it clear that he does not consider it a sukkah for the purpose of the mitzvah any longer.<sup>122</sup>

---

Maariv prayer, making certain to include Vatodi'einu this time. (This is exclusive to eating. If any melachah was performed, Maariv is not repeated.)

118) See Likkutei Sichos, vol. 31, p. 191ff.

119) It is best that someone who inadvertently recited bein kodesh l'chol listen to someone else's recital of Havdalah. If that is not possible, repeat the entire Havdalah yourself. (This was explained at length at the Kinus Torah Chol Hamoed Pesach 5774. The discussion was printed in B'asra D'rav, issue 3.)

120) If you forgot to recite Havdalah and only realize your error in the middle of your meal, stop eating immediately and recite Havdalah over a cup of wine. However, omit the blessing over the wine (borei pri hagafen) because you are already in the middle of a meal. The exception to this rule is if someone had clear intention at the start of the meal, when reciting Kiddush, not to drink any more wine during his meal; he must then recite borei pri hagafen over the wine he is using for Havdalah.

If you forgot to recite Havdalah altogether at night, and only realize the omission the following day, recite Havdalah immediately over a cup of wine. If you only realize your error on motzoei Yom Tov, do not recite anything further, because you have fulfilled your obligation when reciting Havdalah for motzoei Yom Tov.

121) If you remember before completing the final bracha, go back to the bracha of asher bachar banu. Once you've completed Kiddush, you need to say it again, for Shemini Atzeres.

122) See Sichas Leil Simchas Torah 5712, where the Rebbe mentions that he

One of the guests at the Friediker Rebbe's table in 5704 suggested that kiddush be recited by one of those present, and that everyone else could fulfill their obligation through that person's recital. The [Friediker] Rebbe responded,<sup>123</sup> "The shehechyanu that we recite during kiddush on Simchas Torah pertains to the Torah! Regarding the Torah, there is no such thing as one person fulfilling someone else's obligation. If only each person would satisfy his own obligation...!"

On another occasion,<sup>124</sup> the Friediker Rebbe said, "On Simchas Torah, we recite the blessing of shehechyanu. This blessing is not a blessing over the Torah, but rather, it is a blessing on our rejoicing over the Torah. Today, on Simchas Torah, we must treat time precious—all twenty-four hours and every minute! We must accept the yoke upon ourselves, so that for the duration of all 365 days of the coming year, lo yeira'eh ve-lo yimatze, there shall be neither seen nor found a day without Torah!"

Also: "We once heard it said that the kiddush recited on Simchas Torah is le'eila, exalted beyond all explanations! Indeed, the u'leila recited during the ne'ilah service [at the close and climax of Yom Kippur]<sup>125</sup> makes itself heard in the kiddush recited on Simchas Torah!

"Now, [an ordinary] kiddush involves a motzi and a yotzei [he who affords others the opportunity to discharge their obligation with his recital of kiddush, and those who thereby fulfill their obligation]. The motzi must consciously bear his audience in mind, while the yotzei must likewise intend to fulfill his obligation with the other person's recital. In other words, they must all have mindfulness. But the kiddush of Simchas Torah is far greater than that! Each individual must take a siddur, recite the words of kiddush, and pronounce the shehechyanu over the Torah!<sup>126</sup>"

In many sichos, the Rebbe explains that according to halachah, there is no issue with hearing kiddush from someone else. Nevertheless, out of deep affection for this special shehechyanu each person should attempt to recite his own kiddush. However, if it is necessary to do otherwise, one should not hesitate to recite kiddush on behalf of others. As the Rebbe put it:

"We must nevertheless consider the reality. There are those who do not know about this sichah. For one reason or another, they might end up drinking or saying l'chaim without kiddush altogether! Therefore, notwithstanding the fact az der sichah iz takkeh ah sichah [that the Previous Rebbe's statement retains its full weight] and we are required to implement it, nevertheless, due to the reality being what it is, someone here should now recite kiddush and bear in mind all who have not yet recited kiddush.<sup>127</sup>"

Farbrenge: "Immediately following Maariv, before the hakafos, we recite kiddush and farbrenge together in the joyous spirit of the festival. Only then do we proceed to hakafos."

instructed that the sechach be removed on erev Yom Tov for this purpose.

123) Sefer HaSichos 5704, p. 32. The Rebbe explains this episode at length in Likkutei Sichos, vol. 19, sichah for VeZos Habrachah-Simchas Torah.

124) Sefer HaSichos 5697, p. 196. See there for further details, and also see Sichas Yom Simchas Torah 5726.

125) Chassidim do not recite le'eila u'le'eilah in any prayer except for ne'ilah

126) Sefer HaSichos 5709, p. 281

127) Leil Simchas Torah 5731. See also Sichas Leil Simchas Torah 5732. In later years, the Rebbe would not recite kiddush at the farbrenge. The reason for this is explained in Sichas Leil Simchas Torah 5741.

The Rebbe states:<sup>128</sup>

This particular farbrengen period—between Maariv and hakafos—is a custom established by the Rebbeim. Throughout the years, the Rebbe would always farbreng at this point. In the sichah,<sup>129</sup> the Rebbe explains the distinction between the joy of the farbrengen and the joy of hakafos.

On the night of Simchas Torah 5733, the Rebbe mentioned utilizing the break between the end of the farbrengen and the start of hakafos to read shnayim mikra for Parshas Vezos Habrachah.

“The schedule in Lubavitch,” the Friediker Rebbe related,<sup>130</sup> “was that following the delivery of a ma’amor of Chassidus that we would hear on Shemini Atzeres [that would conclude after nightfall on Simchas Torah], we would pray the Maariv service, recite kiddush, taste something of the Yom Tov meal, and then go to the hakafos-farbrengen.”

Ushpizin: “Throughout the seven days of Sukkos,” the Rebbe declared on the night of Simchas Torah 5748, “we are visited by the ushpizin, [holy] ‘guests,’ [so-called because their spiritual influence on us remains external to who we are] During Shemini Atzeres, this is taken a step higher. The ushpizin become ba’alim, ‘hosts’ [i.e., their influence is integrated to the point that it becomes part of who we are]. Now, on Simchas Torah, this all becomes [to quote the Torah’s concluding words that we read on Simchas Torah], le’inei kol Yisrael, ‘Before the eyes of the entire Jewish people’ ... so that we openly witness the association between the ushpizin and all Jews.

“In these countries, it is customary to remove all Sifrei Torah from their ark on both the night and day of Simchas Torah, and to recite songs and praises according to local custom. It is further customary to walk around the bimah in the beis hakneses while holding the Sifrei Torah in the manner that the bimah is circled with the lulav [during hosha’anos]. This is all done for the sake of the joy [of Simchas Torah].”

The order of tonight’s hakafos is identical to yesterday’s.

The Rebbe said,<sup>131</sup> “It is customary to rejoice to a far greater extent during the second hakafos that are performed on the night of Simchas Torah than during the first hakafos that are performed on the night of Shemini Atzeres. If the degree of joy were to remain the same as during the previous night’s hakafos, without an increase, it could not be considered true joy, since it has already been experienced the night before.”

“It was readily observable in the conduct of our Rebbeim that their joy was restricted on the first night of hakafos (Shemini Atzeres). It was restricted in duration as well as in the niggunim and dancing. However, on the second night (Simchas Torah), their joy knew no limits.”

In 770, it is customary to sell the honor of reading the verses of atah ho’reisa. The Rebbe is honored with reading the first and final verses—and occasionally additional verses as well (as occurred in later years on the night of Shemini Atzeres; on the night and day of Simchas Torah, the Rebbe would receive the entire set of verses for their initial reading [they are read three times in total]. The funds generated by selling the verses on the night of Simchas Torah are used to benefit Yeshivas Tomchei Temimim. The funds from the verses on the day of Simchas Torah are used to benefit Merkos L'Inyanei Chinuch and Machane Yisrael (Kupas Rabbeinu).<sup>132</sup>

During Simchas Torah, it is permissible to dance while reciting passages that praise the Torah because this is considered giving honor to the Torah. Chassidim are accustomed to sing, clap, and dance on every Yom Tov as well, even if it coincides with Shabbos.

We should object those who burn oils known as pulver on Simchas Torah. Although they intend to increase the joy of the festival, nevertheless, not everyone finds it pleasurable and it is therefore forbidden to light a flame for this purpose on Yom Tov.<sup>133</sup>

From the Rebbe: “The Zohar strongly associates<sup>134</sup> the concept of Kesser Torah, the Crown of Torah, with Simchas Torah—“The Jewish people are accustomed to rejoice with [the Torah] and to call [the celebration] “Simchas Torah,” and they crown the Sefer Torah with its crown.’ This serves as a rebuttal for those who think they are being clever by removing the crowns from the sifrei torah before the dancing out of concern that, G-d forbid, the crowns may fall from the Sifrei Torah. The Zohar explicitly states that the main concept of Kesser Torah is relevant specifically to Simchas Torah. And from Simchas Torah, this concept is drawn into the entire following year.”<sup>135</sup>

Hakafos are followed by aleinu and kaddish yasom.

It is not the Chabad custom to read from the Torah on the night of Simchas Torah.<sup>136</sup>

Remember to include ya'aleh ve-yavo in birkas hamazon. If you forgot, see footnote<sup>137</sup>. Recite ha-rachaman hu yanchileinu for Yom Tov.

“Everyone knows,” the Previous Rebbe stated,<sup>138</sup> “that during the reading of kri'as shema sheal hamitah [before retiring] on the night of Simchas Torah, when one recites shema yisrael, he must accept upon himself to

However, if you have already recited even the first word (baruch) of the blessing of hatov u'meitiv, you must return to the start of birkas hamazon. See Hebrew footnotes for more scenarios.

be dedicated and devoted to disseminating Torah with the self-sacrifice of his body, spirit (ru'ach), and soul (neshamah), to the point that it becomes his very being (mehus)!<sup>139</sup>

From the year 5716 until 5724, after the Yom Tov meal that followed hakafos on the night of Simchas Torah, the Rebbe taught niggunim and distributed mashke to whoever accepted upon himself to increase (or to begin) the study of Chassidus.

SUNDAY, DAY OF SIMCHAS TORAH

Morning Shema must be said before 9:50 am.

Recite the amidah for the shalosh regalim during Shacharis. Birkas kohanim is recited during Shacharis instead of Musaf (out of concern that because Musaf is preceded by hakafos, a kohen may be intoxicated by the time Musaf arrives). The Shacharis amidah is followed by complete hallel, kaddish tiskabeil, shir shel yom, and kaddish yasom.

Hakafos: Atah horeisa is read three times. Three and a half hakafos circuits are made.<sup>139</sup> Nevertheless, all seven stanzas of hakafos are recited. This is accomplished by reciting one stanza per each half circuit. The announcement that usually marks the end of each hakafah (ad kan hakafah...) is not recited.

Some are accustomed to reciting kiddush before hakafos, despite not having recited Musaf.<sup>140</sup> Those reciting kiddush may eat fruits or similar light refreshments, even in quantities that fill one's appetite. Similarly, they may eat bread—and according to many opinions, also mezonos—up to the quantity of kebeitzah, but not more than that. This is on condition that recite kiddush first, and drink a revi'is of wine or eat a kezayis of any of the five grains immediately after kiddush. If there is a designated person who will remind the one who eats to daven Musaf, or if there are many people eating together (in which case they will remind each other), then there is room to be lenient and permit them to eat more than this amount.

Even on Simchas Torah, one who inflicts damage or injury while intoxicated is fully liable.<sup>141</sup>

When the aron is opened for the reading of the Torah, recite the yud gimmel middos (Hashem Hashem Keil rachum, etc.) just once, followed by the Ribbono Shel Olam prayer.

On Simchas Torah, three Sifrei Torah are removed for the Torah reading: for 1) Parshas Vezos Haberachah; 2) Parshas Bereishis; and 3) today's Musaf offerings.

<sup>140</sup>) As mentioned earlier, birkas kohanim is recited during Shacharis for this very reason. However, see Sichas Yom Simchas Torah 5726, and take note of Igros Kodosh Admor Moharayaz, vol. 6, p. 270.

<sup>141</sup>) The laws regarding praying while intoxicated and additional laws pertaining to an intoxicated person were published by the Badatz in last Purim's issue. See there for details.

It is customary to call many people to the Torah in order to honor the entire congregation with an aliyah on the day that the entire Torah is concluded. To this end, the same portion is read repeatedly until all have had an aliyah. The portion that is repeated begins at the start of Parshas Vezos Haberachah and ends with the words u'vega'avaso shechakim—“He who rides the heavens is at your assistance, and with His majesty, the skies.”<sup>142</sup> It is not forbidden to repeat the reading in this case, since some authorities are of the opinion that it is always permissible to call many people to a single Torah portion when the portion is repeated. Therefore, blessings are recited each time, without fear of reciting a blessing in vain. Although this opinion is not practiced throughout the year, it is relied upon during Simchas Torah for the reason mentioned above.

In actual practice, the custom in 770 is to read the portion just once, but to give many people an aliyah together.

“Today is Simchas Torah!” the Previous Rebbe exclaimed in 5703. “On Simchas Torah, Heaven removes the power of ayin hara (evil eye). Throughout the year, the kelipah and sitra achra are able, G-d forbid, to provoke an ayin hara, but on Simchas Torah, Hashem’s blessing to the Jewish people shines forth openly. Therefore, a father and his sons may receive an aliyah to the Torah together. And with the Simchas Torah dancing, we can elicit a vast amount—abundant influence for all Jews and especially for those who are occupied with Torah and divine service.”<sup>143</sup>

It is customary to call all boys to the Torah in order to train them in the mitzvah of reading the Torah. This practice is referred to as kol ha ne'arim (“All the Boys”). Even small infants may be called to the Torah out of a sense of endearment for the Torah and to educate them about the Torah. Generally, the youngsters are given the fifth aliyah (that begins u'leDan amar—“And of Dan he said: Dan is a young lion...”<sup>144</sup>). An adult should receive an aliyah with the children; he should stand over them, recite the blessing together with them, pronouncing the blessing word by word so that they can repeat after him.

The Rema states that for the children’s aliyah, the passages of hamalach hago’el are read (“May the angel who redeemed me from all harm bless the youths...”<sup>145</sup>). Similarly, Lu’ach Colel Chabad cites the (non-Chabad) practice of spreading a tallis over the heads of the children and whoever else is standing around the bimah after the reading, and to recite hamalach hago’el. In numerous sichos, the Rebbe explains that this is not the Chabad custom. However, the Rebbe points out that the theme of this practice is good and that the spiritual accomplishment sought by those who practice this custom is achieved regardless of its physical implementation. Notably, in the earlier years, the Rebbe often instructed that hamalach hago'el be recited or sung together with all the children during the *farbrenge*n of either Simchas Torah or Shabbos Bereishis.

Chassan Torah: The one who receives the sixth aliyah of me'onah (“The abode for Hashem who precedes all<sup>146)</sup>”) is referred to as the Chassan Torah. It is customary to sell for significant sums the honor to this aliyah, as well as the subsequent aliyah, known as Chassan Bereishis (when the beginning of Parshas Bereishis is read). It is appropriate that these two aliyos be given to those who are outstanding in Torah knowledge or at least are among the most esteemed members of the community. Kohanim may be called as Chassan Torah and Chassan Bereishis, as well as for maftir. One who receives one of these honors should not receive the other as well in the same shul. (Some are lenient about this, but it is not customary to do so.) However, one who received an aliyah in the earlier part of the reading (i.e., he received any of the first five aliyos) may in addition receive Chassan Torah or Chassan Bereishis.

After the fifth aliyah (from u'leDan until shechakim), the Gabbai recites maireshus, the elaborate introduction to the Chassan Torah. It is not the Chabad custom to spread a tallis over the heads of the Chassan Torah or Chassan Bereishis.

For the conclusion of the entire Torah, the congregation rises to its feet and proclaims, “Chazak chazak venis'chazeik!” (Be strong! Be strong! And may we be strengthened!). The one receiving the aliyah recites chazak along with the congregation.

The first sefer torah should not be removed from the bimah until the second sefer torah (rolled to Parshas Bereishis) has been placed beside it. The first sefer torah is then raised and wrapped, and the Gabbai recites meireshus for the Chassan Bereishis.

Chassan Bereishis: On Shabbos Bereishis 5744, the Rebbe mentioned that over the course of time, it became an established practice for the Rebbeim to receive Chassan Bereishis. In earlier times, this was not always the case. See the sichah for an explanation.

During the reading of Parshas Bereishis, it is customary for the community to recite out loud the concluding verse of each day of creation (vayehi erev vayehi vokeir yom...), as well as the entire passage of vayechulu. The one reading the Torah reads each of these verses only after they have been recited by the community.

After the readings from the first two Sifrei Torah have been completed, the third Sefer Torah is placed alongside the second. Chatzi kaddish is recited in order to distinguish between the obligatory readings of the first two Sifrei Torah and the maftir that is read only to honor the Torah. (Kaddish is not recited between the readings from the first and second Sefer Torah.)

Maftir is read from Parshas Pinchas (bayom ha-shemini...). The haftorah begins, “vayehi acharei mos Moshe...”

If there are only two Sifrei Torah available in a shul, then after reading Vezos Haberachah from the first and Bereishis from the second, the first Sefer Torah is returned to the bimah and used for maftir. The first Sefer Torah should be rolled to the appropriate place for maftir while the Gabbai recites the meireshus for the Chassan Bereishis. If there is only one Sefer Torah available in shul, then after they have finished Vezos Haberachah, while the Gabbai is still reading the meireshus for the Chassan Bereishis, the Sefer Torah should be rolled to Parshas Bereishis. After the reading from Bereishis is completed, kaddish should be recited immediately, and the Sefer Torah should then be rolled to the correct place for maftir.

After the Torah readings and the haftorah, the sisu vesimchu liturgy (printed in the Siddur) is recited with song and dance. That is followed by Ashrei, yehallelu, chatzi kaddish, and then Musaf for shalosh regalim.

On principle, Musaf should not be delayed beyond the seventh halachic hour of the day, which is one hour after chatzos. It is considered sinful to delay it beyond that time. One who nevertheless recited Musaf later in the day has fulfilled his obligation because the service remains valid until the end of the day. It is customary to be lenient about delaying Musaf if it is not due to laziness or the like, G-d forbid, but due to the length of the morning prayers on an occasion such as Simchas Torah, or lengthy prayers in general, for that matter.

One who forgot to recite Musaf may still recite it any time before tzeis hakochavim (nightfall). After that, it is too late and there is no way to compensate.

During Musaf, recite the sacrificial verses of the day: bayom hashemini and uminchasam. If you omitted them or recited the verses for the wrong day, or made another mistake, see footnote.<sup>147</sup>

147) If you omitted these verses, but realized your error before concluding the following blessing (mekadesh yisrael vehazemanim), return to the sacrificial verses and continue from there. If, however, you have already pronounced Hashem's name at the conclusion of that blessing, do not return to recite the verses.

If you recited the wrong day's sacrificial verses and realized your error before pronouncing Hashem's name in the above-mentioned blessing, return to recite the correct verses and continue from there. If you only realized after pronouncing Hashem's name, there are diverse halachic opinions as to the correct course of action. Many authorities maintain that you do not return. Others disagree. In their opinion, if you recite the wrong sacrificial verses, you have not fulfilled your obligation. Therefore, if you concluded the blessing, return to the beginning of the

For kiddush, recite: (1) askinu se'udasa (the Yom Tov version); (2) eileh mo'adei; (3) borei peri ha-gafen.

If you forgot to recite shehechiyanu last night during Kiddush, say it whenever you remember anytime before the end of yomtov (even if you recited it the first night).

We eat a seudas Yom Tov. The Rema states that “the final day of Yom Tov is called Simchas Torah because we rejoice and hold a festive meal in honor of having completed the entire Torah.”

Birkas hamazon is as last night's.

As part of the daily Chitas, we say the entire parsha of Vezos Habracha (for the third time).

Chitas: In numerous sichos, the Rebbe<sup>148</sup> reminds those present to study the Chumash of Parshas Bereishis (in addition to concluding the Chumash with Parshas V'zos Habracha) during Simchas Torah. Accordingly, the first aliyah of Bereishis must be studied on Simchas Torah this year because the festival occurs on a Sunday. These portions are therefore most relevant to Simchas Torah.

The above directive stands in contrast to the moreh shi'ur (Chitas calendar) and HaYom Yom, both of which state that Bereishis is studied on the day after Simchas Torah: “Parshas Vezos Haberachah is studied on Simchas Torah, from the aliyah corresponding to the day in the week on which Simchas Torah occurs, until the end of that Parshah ... On Isru Chag Sukkos, Parshas Bereishis is studied from its beginning until the end of the aliyah that corresponds to the current day of the week.” Numerous other sichos also state that Bereishis should be studied on Isru Chag.<sup>149</sup>

On Simchas Torah and Shabbos Bereishis 5746, the Rebbe explained his reason for instructing to study Parshas Bereishis on Simchas Torah, in contradiction to the moreh shi'ur: “There is no reason to delay this study simply due to the fact that the mitzvah of the day is to celebrate, for time is squandered in any case! Needless to say, the study of Parshas Bereishis must not come at the expense of the rejoicing and dancing. G-d forbid to detract from the joy of the day! However, there are moments within the day when one is not occupied in rejoicing and dancing regardless. Instead of using those moments for other matters, one should use them to study the relevant sections of Parshas Bereishis.”

The most significant section of Chumash study is that particular day's portion. Accordingly, because this year's Simchas Torah is on a Sunday, the primary section to study is rishon of Vezos Haberachah and rishon of Bereishis<sup>150</sup>.

bleeding and recite the correct verses. The latter opinion was mentioned by the Rebbe at a farbrengen as the straightforward halachah. This has been addressed in B'asra Drav 3 fn. 26.

If you accidentally began the Shabbos or weekday sections of the amidah prayers, simply interrupt and immediately recite the Yom Tov sections.

Recite the amidah of shalosh regalim during Minchah.

Farbrenge: Following Minchah, a farbrenge is conducted. It is customary to wash one's hands for bread before sunset and to eat at least the quantity of bread equal to a kebeitzah. The niggunim of the Rebbeim are sung. Before beginning each niggun, the name of the Rebbe associated with that niggun is announced.

"Before nightfall, it is the custom of the Rebbe shlita to wash his hands for a meal, in the course of which he delivers a ma'amar. This is followed by birkas hamazon, Maariv, havdalah, and the distribution of wine to all those present from kos shel berachah, the cup over which the blessings of birkas hamazon were recited<sup>151</sup>."

"It is customary," the Previous Rebbe directed,<sup>152</sup> "to sing the Shpolier Zeide's niggun, 'Hop Cossack!' on Simchas Torah and on Acharon Shel Pesach. We should therefore sing it now...."

"During Simchas Torah farbrengens, the Rebbe is accustomed to remind everyone to contribute to the Keren Hashanah Fund."<sup>153</sup> This year, contributions should be given in multiples of 353 which is the number of days in the year 5781.

If the Yom Tov meal extends to nightfall, even many hours, you still say ya'aleh veyavo in bentching, as the obligation is related not to the current time, but to the status present when the meal started.

Yom Tov ends at 7:02 pm.

The Badatz has in the past issued an advisory that one should not photograph or digitally record anything at all until after the congregation has prayed Maariv. May those who conduct themselves accordingly be blessed!

The Rebbe repeatedly discussed<sup>154</sup> the announcement that was made in Lubavitch of old at the conclusion of Simchas Torah. From this moment, our mode of divine service switches track. We now enter a state of veYaakov halach ledarko ("Yaakov went on his way<sup>155</sup>"). There are multiple levels of applying this message, as Simchas Torah 5746.

151) Sefer HaMinhagim Chabad, regarding Rosh Hashanah.

152) Sefer HaSichos 5704 [during the meal on Acharon Shel Pesach], p. 116.

See also the Rebbe Rashab's sichah on Simchas Torah 5680 (Toras Shalom, p. 236). The reason for this custom is explained in Roshei Devarim of the se'udos of Leil Acharon Shel Pesach 5727. See also Acharon Shel Pesach 5730. This niggun was frequently sung during the Rebbe's farbrengens on Simchas Torah or Shabbos Bereishis. See Sichas Shabbos Bereishis 5726 for the association between this niggun and the theme of Yaakov halach ledarko.

153) Sefer Minhagim Chabad. This is explained in Likkutei Sichos, vol. 2, p. 654 ff. The Rebbe also reminds everyone to study Chitas and to participate in the Kinus Torah.

154) See for example, Likkutei Sichos, vol. 20, p. 269.

155) Bereishis 32:2

discussed in many sichos. At the conclusion of Shabbos Bereishis, this announcement is repeated.

During Maariv, the phrase mashiv haru'ach u'morid hageshem is inserted. (The switch to mashiv haru'ach was introduced during Musaf on Shemini Atzeres.) Ata chonantanu is also included. (Ve'sein tal u'matar is not recited until the 5th of December. This year, the change will be introduced on Motza'ei Shabbos, the eve of the 20th of Kislev.)

Havdalah: The usual text of havdalah is recited, but without the blessings over the spices and the candle.

The Rebbe tells, “There is a famous adage of the Rebbe [Rashab]: After Simchas Torah, the order of veYaakov halach le'darko begins. It is the way of Hashem, the way of Torah and mitzvos. The [Friediker] Rebbe explained the theme of Shemini Atzeres and Simchas Torah as follows: One purchases merchandise at a fair. He then arrives home and unpacks the merchandise—throughout the following year—and he begins to put the merchandise to its intended use. The same is true of each Jew. During [Tishrei,] the seventh month (shevi'i) that is satiated (musbah, from the same root letters as shvi'i) with all good matters, each Jew is given spiritual merchandise with which to provide a livelihood for himself for the duration of the coming year. What is required, however, is that we actually open the packages, unpack the merchandise, and put it to its intended use.<sup>156</sup>”

And: “As the auspicious and festive days of Rosh Hashanah, Yom Kippur, Sukkos, Shemini Atzeres, and Simchas Torah draw to a close, a Jew must enter mundane, weekday life. Furthermore, these weekdays belong to the winter season, the half of the year that is sorely lacking in festivals. He must therefore take provisions for the journey along with him. These provisions are the powers and influences that will give him the ability to fulfill the instruction of veYaakov halach le'darko—to go on his way with confidence, despite the fact that all journeys involve danger. For this very purpose, he experienced Shemini Atzeres, a time when all the comprehensive influences of the month of Tishrei are gathered and absorbed internally. He also experienced Simchas Torah that marks the start of the revelation and elicitation. This makes it far easier to bring about actual positive results—throughout the entire coming year—from all the positive resolutions made during Tishrei.<sup>157</sup>”

“One who has not yet read shnayim mikra for Parshas Vezos Haberachah should read it no later than the night following Simchas Torah. The night follows the day, so the night after Simchas Torah is still associated with Parshas Vezos Haberachah that was read on Simchas Torah.” In this sichah,<sup>158</sup> the Rebbe explains that the same is true of the portions of Chitas that were meant to have been studied on Simchas Torah.

MONDAY, TISHREI 24, ISRU CHAG

The Rebbe recalls:<sup>159</sup> “Today marks the yahrtzeit of my grandmother

Law for Redemption: Once the festival has concluded, the utensils and equipment of the Beis Hamikdash are removed from their places and immersed. This is done to purify the Courtyard from the ritual impurity of those ignorant of the laws of ritual purity who came in contact with the equipment during the festival.

During Shacharis, do not recite tachanun, lamnatze'ach ya'anacha, and tefilah leDovid. This applies until the end of Tishrei.

Lamnatze'ach ya'anacha is recited after davening before Tehillim.

The day following a festival is referred to as Isru Chag. This name is derived from the verse, Isru chag ba'avosim ad karnos hamizbe'ach (“Bind the festival [offering] with cords until [you bring it to] the horns of the altar.<sup>160</sup>”) Taken literally, the phrase “isru chag” means to bind the festival itself, which Chazal explain as connecting (binding) the day following the festival with the actual festival, i.e., to celebrate in honor of the festival that has just ended. This celebration, Chazal explain, takes the form of feasting, as alluded to in the alternative meaning of ba'avosim—with fattened cattle. The verse’s final phrase, “To the horns of the altar,” allude to the fact that whoever celebrates by eating and drinking a little more than usual on the day after the festival, and treats it as a mini-festival in honor of the departed festival, is considered as having built an altar and offered an actual sacrifice to Hashem.

It is customary to eat and drink a little more than usual on Isru Chag and to avoid fasting altogether. Even a bride and groom on the day of their wedding, and even one who marks the anniversary of his parent’s passing, is prohibited from fasting. This is only a custom, because according to the strict law, fasting is indeed permitted on Isru Chag. Nevertheless, one who withholds oneself from fasting in honor of Isru Chag is praiseworthy.

There is a debate regarding one who forgot to recite havdalah on motzei Yom Tov. Since the matter is uncertain, havdalah should not be recited once the night has passed.

Someone who pledged to give tzedakah during yizkor should not delay in fulfilling his pledge. It should be noted that, in addition to the clear prohibition of extending debt for spiritual contributions, the Alter Rebbe champions those who practice expediency in fulfilling tzedakah obligations in his lgros Kodesh.

Once Sukkos has passed, the sechach may be used for any purpose, although it is appropriate to avoid stepping on the sechach or using it for a disrespectful purpose.

“Berel.”

160) Tehillim 118

Regarding sukkah decorations, the Rebbe commented: “Seemingly, it is appropriate to add a warning regarding the need to preserve their sanctity, and especially—to completely avoid the fate that commonly meets sukkah decorations, particularly after Sukkos has ended.”

Shulchan Aruch Admor HaZaken states that because it is appropriate to use an object that was used for one mitzvah for the sake of an additional mitzvah, some are accustomed to using the aravos that were struck against the ground on Hoshana Rabbah to burn the chametz on erev Pesach. Others use the aravos to fuel the oven used to bake matzos.<sup>161</sup> The Frierdiker Rebbe relates that in practice, the sechach was burned in the bath house, soon after Sukkos. The lulav and hosha'anos were burned on an ordinary weekday and was not kept to burn with the chametz.

In a Farbrengen on the second day of Shavuos, the Rebbe said:<sup>162</sup>

“The custom has been established over a number of years and in numerous locations to arrange a kinus Torah following and in close proximity to all of the three major festivals [Pesach, Shavuos, and Sukkos]... We should strive to publicize this custom wherever it has not yet been implemented, so that the people of those locations will likewise arrange a kinus Torah in continuation of, and in proximity to, the festivals - i.e., on the day of Isru Chag. They should consider the local conditions and hold the kinus during subsequent days instead, if doing so will allow for a larger attendance.”

Further: “If a kinus Torah is held on the day following each of the festivals, how much more so a Kinus Torah should be held on Isru Chag Simchas Torah! For the entire concept of Torah, and even kesser (the crown of) Torah is emphasized to a unique degree on Simchas Torah.”<sup>163</sup> “This is to remind everyone about the custom in recent years to hold a kinus Torah on Isru Chag.<sup>164</sup>”

Rabbi Yeshayahu Hertzel relates: In the year 5726, I stood outside the entrance to 770 together with my father-in-law HaRav Yaakov Freidman while a kinus Torah was underway on Isru Chag Shavuos. The Rebbe approached us and asked, “Why are you standing outside the Kinus Torah?!” We attempted to respond that we were dealing with a very important matter—details that were needed for the imminent wedding. But he paid no attention to our response, and again demanded, “Is it not in the middle of Torah?! For wedding-related matters, you can steal some of your sleep time!” From that moment on, I felt deeply taken by the importance of participating in these kinusim, even if it involves some difficulty. When I related this episode during the kinus Torah following Shavuos, HaRav HaGaon Rabbi Mentlik was extremely pleased. He exclaimed, “Why did you leave such an important matter like this until the end of the kinus?!”

The Frierdiker Rebbe related,<sup>165</sup> “The festival has an entire set of seven days [following the festival] in which to achieve whatever needed to be accomplished during the festival. In the original town of Lubavitch, they would farbrenge on every night following Simchas Torah until Rosh Chodesh!”

WEDNESDAY, TISHREI 26

Today is the anniversary of the victory (didan natzach) in 5750 when the federal courts ruled in accordance with the halachah that “a king does not serve as a witness [in court]”—the Rebbe was not required to testify in the case of the sefarim. A diary entry recorded by one of the students in 770 at the time reads as follows:

“The news reached 770 around twelve o’clock. Rabbi Y.L. Groner immediately informed the Rebbe shlita, and the Rebbe asked if the congregation were saying lechaim. He answered, ‘Certainly!’ The Rebbe asked, ‘With restriction or without restriction?’ Rabbi Groner replied that each individual was doing as he felt appropriate. The Rebbe told him, ‘True, it is a year of miracles—but it should [nevertheless] be with restriction!’ The Rebbe came downstairs for the Minchah service wearing his silk gartel as he has done throughout this particular year, and wearing a new hat, at 3:15. The congregation sang didan natzach enthusiastically. As the Rebbe reached his prayer spot, he turned to face the congregation and encouraged the singing with his hand. During the chazzan’s repetition, they sang sim shalom, and he encouraged the niggun with his holy hand. At the end of the service, the congregation sang al tirah and ach tzadikim, and he continued to pound the lectern for considerable time as a signal to continue singing ki Elokim. That very same night, following the Maariv service and the sichah that followed, a grand farbrenge was held. The signs posted in 770 announcing the farbrenge noted the [Rebbe’s] directive that the familiar restrictions [on excessive alcohol] be upheld.”

THURSDAY, TISHREI 27

Chitas: Today’s portion of Chumash concludes with the words ve’achostuval kayin na’amah, “The sister of Tuval Kayin was Na’amah” (verse 22).

FRIDAY, TISHREI 28

Chitas: Today’s portion of Chumash starts with the words vayomeir lemech lenashav, “Lemech said to his wives” (verse 23).

Today, we recite shnayim mikra of Bereishis.

The [Friediker] Rebbe related that the Tzemach Tzedek would review Parshas Bereishis [for shnayim mikra] at length. He would say: “The way we establish ourselves [today], that is how things will go [the rest of the year]!” The [Friediker] Rebbe further related that the Tzemach Tzedek would read shnayim mikra ve’echad targum together with the commentaries of Rashi and Ramban, verse by verse. However, he did not explain whether the Tzemach Tzedek continued this practice throughout the year or whether it was restricted to Shabbos Bereishis. Regardless, the careful reading of shnayim mikra is especially relevant to Shabbos Bereishis because, as stated earlier, it determines our ability to act throughout the year in a broad and expansive manner.<sup>166</sup>

166) Reshimah MeiChoreif 5695. See also Sichas Shabbos Parshas Bereishis 5712.

It is a mitzvah to check your pockets before Shabbos to make sure that you will not inadvertently carry in the public domain on Shabbos. This is especially important when you have been wearing your Shabbos clothing during the week on Yom Tov, when carrying was permitted.

Candle lighting is at 5:55 pm.

SHABBOS BEREISHIS, TISHREI 29, MEVORCHIM CHESHVAN

“Listen, Jews!” the Previous Rebbe announced in 5691<sup>167</sup>, “We can still grab an opportunity to do teshuvah! On Rosh Hashanah it is inscribed, on Yom Kippur it is undersigned, on Hoshana Rabba the bills of life are issued, but until Shabbos Bereishis the messengers have yet to leave the palace!”

During the meal on the night of Shabbos Bereishis 5705,<sup>168</sup> the Frieddiker Rebbe stated, “Chassidim used to conduct especially powerful farbrengens on Shabbos Bereishis.”

“On Shabbos Bereishis, we must be joyful the entire Shabbos!” the Frieddiker Rebbe insisted on another occasion,<sup>169</sup> “We must farbrenge a lot and be joyful!” An alternative version: “On Shabbos Bereishis, we don’t go by foot. We must farbrenge the entire twenty-four hours in joy!”<sup>170</sup>

“Shabbos Bereishis is a joyful sidrah! The overall sidra is joyous, and it is Shabbos Bereishis. There is joy and gladness in all Jewish congregations because we have started the Torah afresh!”<sup>171</sup>

In 770, it is customary for the chazzan to use tunes from the prayers of Rosh Hashanah, Yom Kippur, Shemini Atzeres and Simchas Torah during prayers on Shabbos Bereishis.

There are those who refrain from making Kiddush “in the first hour of the night” (this is a full sixty minutes that begin seven hours after the middle of the day). During Daylight Savings Time, this is from 6:56 to 7:56 pm in NYC.<sup>172</sup>

Early on Shabbos morning, the entire book of Tehillim is read. Today is a day to farbrenge.

On this, the Rebbe commented, “Although such a quality is to be found on Rosh Hashanah, Yom Kippur, Hoshana Rabba, and even on Shemini Atzeres, but not on Shabbos Bereishis... Well, this is one of the questions that Eliyahu HaNavi will have to answer!” (Shabbos Bereishis 5711.) See Roshei Devarim of Se’udas Leil Shemini Atzeres 5731. Shema must be recited before 9:53 am.

Parshas Bereishis is read. The fifth aliyah should conclude with the words ve'achostuval kayin na'amah and the sixth begins with possuk 23: Vayomer Lemech Lenashav.<sup>173</sup>

Since Sunday (and Monday) are Rosh Chodesh, the Haftorah is the portion of Machar Chodesh.

Yekum purkan is recited.

Some are accustomed to observing a series of post-festival fasts known as BaHaB. In many communities, the chazzan recites a special prayer for those who will engage in BaHaB. This prayer is recited on the Shabbos before Rosh Chodesh, while blessing the coming month. The actual fasts begin after Rosh Chodesh. Shulchan Aruch Admor HaZaken states that it is customary to avoid blessing those who will observe BeHaB while it is still Tishrei. Rather, they should wait until the following Shabbos.

The blessing over the coming month of Mar-Cheshvan is recited.

This month, the molad was on Friday night, at 3:23 am.

When blessing the new month, the dates are filled in as follows: Rosh chodesh mar-cheshvan, ba'yom harishon uva'yom hasheini habahaleinu l'tovah.

Av harachamim is not recited on this Shabbos.

During the Shabbos Bereishis farbrengen in 770, it is customary—as is customary among many communities—to sell the mitzvos that are associated with the shul.

The Rebbe said: “It is customary in many Jewish communities on Shabbos Bereishis to sell the mitzvos associated with the shul: aliyos, hagbah, gelilah, opening the aron, the cost of the shul's lighting needs, wine for kiddush and havdalah, and so on.”<sup>174</sup>

In 770, the Gabbai customarily conducts the sale while wearing a shtreimel. This reason for this is explained in Shabbos Parshas Bereishis 5750.<sup>175</sup>

174) Shabbos Parshas Bereishis 5750—Sefer HaSichos 5750, vol. 1, 83. See there at length for the reason behind this custom. See also Sichas Shabbos Bereishis 5712 and 5725, and elsewhere.

For the permissibility of such a sale on Shabbos or Yom Tov, See Shulchan Aruch Admor HaZaken 306:16; Maharik, Shoresh 9; Maharil, Hilchos Sukkos, and elsewhere. The Rebbe explains this in Shabbos Bereishis 5718. For a lesson in Divine service derived from this sale, see Likkutei Sichos, vol. 1, p. 2.

175) For an alternative approach, see Shabbos Parshas Bereishis 5748: “May it be Hashem’s will that the sale of mitzvos meet with outstanding and resounding success; success that translates into a lot of money for the shul. The main thing is that we very soon merit the era in which it will no longer be necessary to sell mitzvos because gold and silver will be available in abundance...in a manner of ‘I will pour out.’ Then, the congregation will also be in a complete state, kahal gadol,

Concerning reciting Chitas, the Rebbe says: “Even after having spoken about studying the day’s portion of Parshas Bereishis on the day of Simchas Torah [and not on Isru Chag, as explained at length above], there nevertheless remain one or two Jews who have not studied this portion—neither on Simchas Torah, nor on Isru Chag! In fact, they have not done so until this very day! Anyhow, they should make good on this immediately after the farbrengen—or even in the middle of the farbrengen, instead of falling asleep... From now on, they will certainly be careful to study each day’s portion in its proper time. I strongly hope that these words will have their desired effect. If there is even a chance that it might work, it is worth my lengthy discussion, just in case that it might perhaps have an effect... Why, if I only discussed matters that I was absolutely certain would be fully implemented, the farbrengen would be a lot shorter!”<sup>176</sup>

The Torah reading for Minchah is from Parshas Noach, followed by the regular Shabbos Minchah amidah. Tzidkasecha is not recited.

There is a widespread (non-Chabad) custom to begin reciting barchi nafshi and the fifteen chapters of Tehillim that begin shir ha-ma’alos from this Shabbos. This custom is also mentioned in Shulchan Aruch Admor HaZaken,<sup>177</sup> However, the Alter Rebbe does not mention it at all in his Siddur.<sup>178</sup>

Toward the end of the farbrengen on Shabbos Bereishis 5750 (which had the same calendar setup as this year), the Rebbe suddenly announced: As a special bonus for Shabbos Bereishis, an additional farbrengen will be held at the time of shalosh seudos “Raiva Deraivin”. The farbrengen will continue during the time of seudas Dovid Malka Meshicha. It will be held in the style of an actual feast, preceded by netilas yadayim and followed by Birchas Hamazon and kos shel bracha.

Shabbos ends at 6:53 pm.

The Rebbe said: “[Following Simchas Torah] the [Frierdiker] Rebbe would wish people “ah gezunter vinter,” “A healthy winter!” Using the [Frierdiker] Rebbe’s choice of words, I wish you, your husbands, and children, a healthy, joyful, and fortunate winter, and goodness always!”<sup>179</sup> Elsewhere, the Rebbe wishes, “A healthy winter and a joyful year!”
